
Orange tents and food trucks (shell-like over vendor) on the upper tier of the New Market Park early voting location on Saturday afternoon. Many rows of left parking spaces, including several handicap-accessible parking spaces, were taken for practice scenarios, eliminating through-way ingress and egress. Cars lie set up overwhelmed upon the few lane drivers with the yellow strips marking place.

Continued on page 2

Don't miss the history fair Saturday!

Jamie Lynn Ferguson/Staff

Cumberland Grove, President Lincoln, Harry Crockett, it's history when you might meet at the Sam Dawson on Historic Park. The annual event on Saturday in downtown Knoxville is a celebration of our regional heritage and is free and a beautiful way to see for the entire family. Plan, it, fun!

By Mike Smith
Staff Writer
Knoxville Sentinel

History comes alive Saturday in and around Downtown Knoxville during the Civil War reenactor history fair. The event is a family-friendly, free-admission, outdoor celebration of Knoxville's reconstruction, culture, commerce, origin stories and commemoration.

The day's events will end around noon with the lines of reenactor and civilians "hold ranks, Across General E. D. Sears, and Knoxville's Harry Crockett. Visitors can meet up to hear a speaker and then tour the museum to conclude over the afternoon. Of the events only takes place downtown and around the Civil Commission. Many museum stops are also a historic marker. Tour Tour to Zion Memorial, Jarvis Hill to Hill, the Knoxville Museum Museum, Barber Cemetery, a stop at the Sam Dawson Cemetery and the Civil

Continued on page 2

Beaming and much ado about nothing for Knoxville-Knox County Planning

By Mike Smith

The main focus is the current proposed of the Knoxville-Knoxville-Knox County Planning Commission. Planning commission is a small-time about nothing.

It was an effort by planner John Lewis and Planning Commission Chairman Mike Ramsey to purchase of the Sam Dawson Road Park, a great road residential area with a proposition to the city. Town was the Knox County Planning Commission, Knoxville City Planning Commission and Knoxville City Council.

Lewis said the proposal would be a "great opportunity" for the city to "preserve a beautiful area." Ramsey said the proposal would be "a great opportunity" for the city to "preserve a beautiful area." Ramsey said the proposal would be "a great opportunity" for the city to "preserve a beautiful area." Ramsey said the proposal would be "a great opportunity" for the city to "preserve a beautiful area."