Interim Superintendent Opposes Rountree Resolution

By Focus Staff

Buzz Thomas, Interim Superintendent of Knox County Schools, has expressed profound concerns about a resolution sponsored by South Knoxville board member Amber Rountree. Rountree, a former librarian who now serves on the board of education, is sponsoring a resolution asking the legislature and Tennessee Department of Education Candace McQueen for a waiver exempting Knox County from using TCAP data for teacher evaluations and student grades this year. Thomas has said he believes Rountree's resolution, which has no force of law nor is it binding in any way, is "ill advised."

Thomas has won plaudits for his guidance of the Knox County school system following the departure of Jim McIntyre. Thomas has won praise for being open minded, transparent and inclusive. Where McIntyre had a dictatorial management style, Thomas has shown a cooperative touch in dealing with all shareholders in the school system. In spite of Thomas' concerns, Rountree is pushing ahead with her resolution, saying, "I really think that what I do as a board member is to be proactive. We have to be preemptive. We were granted a waiver last year." What Rountree failed to point out is Knox County was granted a waiver after problems with the testing became embarrassingly evident. The State of Tennessee has hired a new company to administer the tests and Buzz Thomas has pointed out the Rountree resolution could jeopardize relationships that are vital to the Knox County school system. Thomas has told Board members that he has worked hard to build a productive relationship with Mayor Tim Burchett and considering the school system is dependent upon the county commission for funding and has an understanding in place about spending, the interim superintendent doesn't wish to do anything that might move the system backward. Another important relationship for the Knox County school system is that with the Tennessee General Assembly.

East Knoxville Economic Summit draws ideas

John Fugate and Mark Campen share their view about Fountain City's needs during the East and Northeast Economic Summit Thursday. The meeting drew more than 100 people and the four sections of the area discussed the economic future.

By Mike Steely

How to better East and Northeast Knoxville, how to preserve and promote East Town Mall, and how to improve business and living conditions were the topics addressed Thursday afternoon during an East and North Knoxville Economic Summit.

Organized by Knoxville City Councilman Nick Della Volpe and attended by more than 100 officials and citizens, the meeting heard briefly from him, Doug Minter of the Knoxville Chamber, and Justin Sterling of Conversion Properties and the East Towne Business Alliance. Then the crowd broke into four groups to address possible solutions.

The Burlington-Magnolia Avenue Corridor table was chaired by Alice Allen of East Knoxville BPA and Minter. The East Town Mall and Business District discussion was led by Sterling and Brant Enderle, who represented the new mall owners.

The Lower Broadway group was led by Art Cate of KCDE and the North Knoxville BPA. John Fugate of the Fountain City BPA led the Fountain City area discussion group.

The idea of each table was to come up with suggestions and share those thoughts at the end of the meeting. Some of the suggestions echoed what a survey of 300 area residents wanted, including upscale restaurants, entertainment for kids and young adults, parking, and more minority and locally owned businesses.

Della Volpe said having the new owners of East Towne Mall involved was a real plus and a mall spokesman said that potholes are being patched, other improvements are underway, and the escalators are being repaired.

KAT Announces Proposed Service Improvements for January 2017

Knoxville Area Transit (KAT) is pleased to announce a proposal for service improvements, which were introduced to the Knoxville Transportation Authority (KTA) last month. The proposed changes affect 13 bus routes as well as one Trolley route, and include later evening service, Sunday service on Route 23 Millertown Pike and Route 33 MLK, as well as more frequent Saturday service on Route 12 Western Ave. and Route 22 Broadway.

The proposed changes are:

Route 11 - Kingston Pike will add an additional inbound trip to reach downtown at 9:15 a.m. on Sundays.

Route 12 - Western Avenue will continue full service to I-640 Plaza for two additional trips on weekdays and will add 30-minute service on Saturdays.

Route 13 - Beaumont will add two additional round-trips at 6:15 and 7:15 p.m. on weekdays.

Route 16 - Cedar Bluff will add a 9:15 p.m. trip on weekdays and Saturdays.

Route 17 - Sutherland will continue 30-minute service for one additional hour; add a 10:15 p.m. trip on weekdays and add a 10:15 p.m. trip on Saturdays.

Route 21 - Lincoln Park will add trips at 7:15 and 8:15 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays.

Route 22 - Broadway will see 30-minute service on Saturdays.

Route 23 - Millertown will add Sunday service.

Route 30 - Parkridge will add a 6:45 p.m. trip on weekdays and Saturdays.

Route 33 - Martin Luther King, Jr. Ave will add Sunday service.

Route 34 - Burlington will add a 9:15 p.m. trip on weekdays and add trips at 7:15, 8:15 and 9:15 p.m. on Saturdays.

Route 40 - South Knoxville will add a 9:15 p.m. trip on weekdays and add a 7:15, 8:15 and 9:15 p.m. trip on Saturdays.

Route 45 - Vestal will add a 9:15 p.m. trip on weekdays and add a 7:15, 8:15, and 9:15 p.m. trip on Saturdays.

Judicial Diversion

What It is and What It Means

There is a lot of confusion about the term judicial diversion, with many thinking it is something like a "get out of jail free" card. Judicial diversion, at its base level, means you can plead guilty to a charge and serve the probationary period for that charge and then at the end of that time, if you have completed the probation and paid all of the fines and costs, the charge you pleaded guilty to can be expunged.

By Jeddiah McKeenan
attorneyknoxville@gmail.com

When can you use a judicial diversion?

Keep in mind you can only use judicial diversion one time, but it can cover multiple offenses.

To be eligible to use judicial diversion, you generally have to be charged with certain types of misdemeanors or Class E felonies, which is the lowest level of felony. You can't use judicial diversion on a murder or DUI or anything of that nature.

How do judicial diversions work practically?

When you go to court and are charged with a crime, you are able to apply for a judicial diversion by submitting a form to the Tennessee

Bureau of Investigation (TBI) in Nashville. You have to pay $100.00 to get this form completed and sent back to you.

They are able to run your record and tell you if you eligible for a judicial diversion or not. If you are eligible, you will be sent a form that you can then submit to the judge and District Attorney when you enter your plea of guilty.

When you finish your probationary period, you send that form back to the TBI with a $350 fine and they will expunge that guilty plea from your record completely - as if it never happened.

What does this really get you?

If you get something expunged, all of a sudden you can answer that you have never been convicted of a crime. How can you do this? It's been expunged, that conviction never happened. I would add, this process sounds very easy, but it's not. The paperwork that must be submitted to complete the expungement and remove something from your record has to be perfect. To that end, in Knox County, they have set up a certain dates and times at the courthouse specifically to help individuals complete expungement paperwork.

Conversations with state legislators have been cause for concern as Harry Brooks, Chairman of the House Education Committee, is opposed to Rountree's resolution. Bill Dunn, Chairman of the House Finance, Ways & Means Committee is opposed as well Tennessee Education Commissioner Candace McQueen also doesn't support Rountree's resolution.

Many of the concerns expressed in Rountree's resolution were addressed by Buzz Thomas in an email to all board members. Thomas pointed out cut scores are always set after a standardized test is administered. Thomas also assured board members that local teachers would be participating in the process by serving on the review committees for the test. Thomas also noted the American Educational Research Association's recent report, a report cited by Rountree in a communication sent to board members, has eight recommendations all of which Thomas says Tennessee has met.

Buzz Thomas has urged board members to remember that the school system can ask for a waiver at any time, especially if there was a problem with the test. Thomas reminded board members when the difficulties with the test occurred last year, Governor Haslam, legislators and Commissioner McQueen were all helpful and the interim superintendent believes that would be the case again if there should be the slightest trouble with the new statewide test.

Setbacks changes approved for house on Odessa Lane

By Mike Steely
steelym@knoxfocus.com

The Knox County Board of Zoning and Appeals welcomed Robert H. Thompson to the body Wednesday and said goodbye to Cynthia Stancil. Thomason replaces Carson Dailey who was elected to the Knox County Commission. Stancil represented the 1st District and is being replaced by Pat Williams.

The board approved a variance request from Dean Schneitman for front and side setbacks for a new two-story home at 826 Odessa Lane in Wildwood Gardens. He told the board that his wife fell in love with the lot and they bought it only to discover that much of the lot was actually fill dirt. He said that in order to build he'll have to move the plans toward the front of the lot. Schneitman asked for a variance from the 35-foot requirement to 20 feet. On the side yard he asked for 10 feet instead of the normal 12 feet.

The property owner said that engineers had to go down 50 or 60 feet to find solid ground in the rear lawn of the house and said that a rear deck there was "really wanted" so the plans had to be moved forward on the lot.

Board member Kevin Murphy congratulated the applicant for a "more than adequate" presentation.

"I'm usually one of the tough nuts to crack," he said as he described Schneitman's as well done. Board member Bill Sewell called the presentation and preparation "excellent."

The BZA turned down a waiver request from Raj Sood of Structure Technology, Inc. for a front setback on Farlow Drive. The property is located at 10800 Kingston Pike and Sood said the wavier was needed to make room for handicapped parking for a proposed National Tire and Battery Store.

Sood said the property is being subdivided but Murphy told him the current property is large enough to allow handicapped parking without the waiver. Sewell said the applicant wasn't being denied reasonable use of the property.

Postponed for 30 days was a request of Broad Creek Builders, LLC., for setbacks to three home lots on Campbell Park Lane.

Also postponed, for 60 days, was a request from Bob Alcorn for Child Creations Daycare on Cope-land Drive and Heiskell Road for front and side setbacks and a landscaping screen. The applicant was asked to go back to the planning commission before reappearing at the BZA hearing.

Publisher's Position Still Divided?

By Steve Hunley,
Publisher
publisher@knoxfocus.com

There were those who hailed the recent local school board elections as being a rejection of Jim McIntyre and many of his goals. Some pointed to the possibility of a new seven-member majority as a foundation for real change in Knox County schools and many expected this group to move with monolithic resolve. Those hopes were shattered when the board divided evenly 4-4 (one member was absent due to a family commitment) between Mike McMillan and Terry Hill to serve as Chairman of the Knox County Board of Education. The board deadlock was reminiscent of a previous deadlock between Mike McMillan and McIntyre supporter Doug Harris.

McMillan had been McIntyre's first and most persistent critic on the board and oftentimes the lone advocate for teachers at their lowest point. Hill has been perhaps the most persistently ambitious member of the board, losing one race for vice chairman of the board, as well as being passed over a second time. With McMillan's withdrawal from the chairman race to recover from a recent surgery, it is anybody's guess what will happen now. It is believed that Hill has other political ambitions and has toyed with challenging State Representative Roger Kane.

The foundation of unity has already shown increasing signs of strain if not outright cracks. The board has numerous challenges facing it in the coming months, yet there seems to be little time being spent on anything aside from politics and attempting to toe the line of the teachers' union.

The absence of Jim McIntyre does allow board members to pursue their own personal agendas and one narrative being pushed currently is the elections were not a rejection of Jim McIntyre, but a genuine ideological movement uniting parents with teachers. This reasoning is delusional. Only a few voters are teachers, some are parents, some are grandparents, but virtually all voters are taxpayers.

Terry Hill has never won any awards for her leadership skills and her most significant accomplishment to date was serving as a one-woman clearinghouse to review applications for the interim superintendent. The end result of that brief process was the selection of Buzz Thomas, which came as no surprise to anyone. Still, Buzz Thomas has had a warm welcome from the public as he has done a good job in a difficult position under trying circumstances. Hill's forte has been to make lengthy speeches, broadly outlining both sides of an issue before sighing what a difficult time she had in reaching a decision. The Board Chair sets a tone more than wielding any real power and whether Terry Hill could keep a coalition together is anybody's guess. Some of those board members aligned with the teachers' union are already grumbling about getting rid of Buzz Thomas.

Personal ambitions don't necessarily translate into great vision or the right direction. Now that Jim McIntyre is no longer the problem, the people of Knox County will be expecting results from the new board for students, parents and taxpayers, not just the teachers' union.

Family Engineering Night was held at Green Magnet Academy last Thursday. The school hosts Family Engineering Night to encourage the families of students to engage in fun, hand-on engineering challenges much like those that their child participates in during the school day in the Design Lab and classroom. Families learn about what engineers do and the role engineering plays in everyday life as well as discover the many career opportunities in engineering.

More College Credits Awarded to Tennessee High School Students

Department of Education Commissioner Candice McQueen announced last week that nearly 7,500 more postsecondary credits were awarded to Tennessee public school students in 2016 when compared to 2014. Additionally, more students than ever before in Tennessee are taking Advanced Placement (AP) exams, with 27,699 students taking one or more exam in 2016— up 8.8 percent from last year.

The new data show that not only are more Tennessee students taking AP tests, but also 3,700 more exams were scored a three or higher, making those students eligible to receive college credit for their high school work. AP classes offer students the ability to take college-level course work and earn college credit based on their performance on the national AP exam.

“Through Tennessee

Promise, our students have an unprecedented opportunity to continue their education beyond high school, and we must ensure they are ready to be successful from day one,” McQueen said. “To ensure their success in college and their future careers, all students in Tennessee need to have access to rigorous and relevant early postsecondary opportunities, and AP course expansion is a key component to this work.”

The trends in Tennessee were mirrored in the national data. Across the country, participation was up by 5.3 percent with a similar percentage increase in the number of exams that were scored as a three or higher.

education. Spanning from Shelby County to Washington County, these schools will work with an Advise TN college advisor to provide college counseling services to 10,000 junior and senior students across the state this fall.

Austin-East and Fulton High Schools were selected in Knox County.

Developed by the Governor's Office in partnership with the Tennessee Higher Education Commission (THEC), Advise TN aims to continue the momentum of Tennessee's growing college enrollment rate, which increased to a historic high of 62.5 percent in 2015.

“Advise TN was developed to build on the work being done to create a college-going culture across the state. We want students to know that college isn't only an option for them, it's an expectation,” Haslam said. “Providing one more adult in students' lives to help them navigate the transition from high school to college helps these students succeed, and it also supports our state and Drive to 55 goals.”

A personal note from Sally Absher

I have decided to take a sabbatical from writing/reporting for The Focus. As many of you know, I am a consulting geologist during the day, and cover education issues in my spare time - but the demands of my “day job” have increased measurably and consumed me for the past eight months. I need to take a break from working 10 hour days and focus on what is important to me - faith, family, and friends. I am so very grateful for the many special friends I have made through my writing and reporting, and for that I am so very grateful.

I also want to thank the many readers who pick up The Knoxville Focus every week to stay abreast of education news and happenings in Knox County. I have enjoyed researching education topics to keep the Knoxville community informed about the decisions that impact your kids and your community, and I hope to return to writing, at least on a limited basis, in the future.

Sincerely, Sally Absher

Edenfield Dental Group is special

By Mike Steely
steelym@knoxfocus.com

When is a dental group more than just a dentist office?

Edenfield Dental Group, at 2937 Essary Road in Fountain City, not only offers the dental services you'd expect but also specializes in treating special needs patients.

"We were established in 2004 for the sole purpose of providing comprehensive dental services for special needs patients using IV Conscious Sedation," said John Courtney. Partnering with Dr. Michael E. Edenfield, DDS, Courtney, a Medical Hospital Administrator and retired Air Force Major, the group also has an office in Chattanooga.

The Knoxville office also has Dr. Brad Hall, experienced and highly trained in IV Conscious Sedation and Dr. Edenfield practices at both locations.

"We've treated more than 60,000 special needs dental appointments and serve the entire Tennessee Eastern Region, seeing more than 700 patients each month," Courtney said.

"We take everyone and offer dental services for people in wheel chairs, the blind, autistic, etc., we change lives," he added. Courtney added that the Knoxville dental office, located just up the street from Litton's Restaurant and Central High School, is also now treating the general public and offering IV Conscious Sedations to them too. The IV sedation method is very safe and patients breathe on their own, and have their vital signs monitored at all times.

The majority of special needs patients are sponsored by the State of Tennessee and live in the local community, in group homes or individual apartments.

"We've also treated thousands of special needs individual who do not require IV sedation and many of our patients have been coming to us for more than 10 years," he said, adding that many special needs people have their own funds or some type of dental insurance.

Courtney said that family members or care givers are always permitted in the treatment rooms with the patients to provide a familiar face and comfort for the special needs patients.

Within the two offices is a staff of 30 people including visiting nurse anesthetists. The eight treatment rooms at the Knoxville office have no doors and are designed for the comfort and care of the patient.

"About three years ago a decision was made to open the dental practice to the general public, including TennCare patients, military or anyone seeking dental care. We are accepting most insurance companies and offer Care Credit financing," he said.

"We don't limit the IV Conscious Sedation to special needs individuals because the general public wants to also have it to reduce their anxiety and pain associated with dental care," Courtney said.

"Our staff is very experienced and friendly and their focus is what is best for individual patients," he said.

County Commission

MPC appointment questioned

By Mike Steely
steelym@knoxfocus.com

It isn't often that a request from Mayor Tim Burchett gets questioned and it isn't often that the county mayor goes against the wishes of neighborhood groups, but last week his appointment of Chris Ooten to the Metropolitan Planning Commission hit both categories.

Margot Kline, speaking for the Council of West Knox Homeowners and other nearby neighborhood groups, asked the commission to consider several other names for the position. She said she has nothing personal against Ooten although she did comment that too many real estate professionals and builders are on the body.

She asked for a 30-day postponement and noted that others are interested in the position including herself, Chuck Pilgrim, Marleen Davis and Dr. John McCook.

Commissioner John Schoonmaker, who represents the area, asked the Constituent Services Department if they had received any calls about the MPC position. Sarah Fansler of the Mayor's Office, said they had received two phone calls and about 20 emails "not in favor" of the appointment. "What we've heard, they feel like the balance on the MPC needs to be more balanced," Schoonmaker said. Schoonmaker then asked Mayor Tim Burchett for a 30 day extension and if the mayor still wanted his appointment to be approved.

"I do," the mayor said as he reached the podium.

Vice Chairman Randy Smith said the current balance of MPC members would "remain about the same" with Ooten's appointment and added he didn't feel the commission is out of balance. Commissioner Hugh Nystrom called Ooten a "pretty good fit."

Mayor Burchett reminded the meeting that his naming of Ooten was "not my recommendation, but my appointment" and referred to state law permitting him to name members of that body.

The appointment passed with Schoonmaker the only member voting "No."

The resolution also reappointed Herbert Anders and Art Clancy, III, to the planning commission.

After a few questions the commission also approved reappointments to the Board of Zoning Appeals including Dennis Sewell, Ron Rochelle, Bill Sewell and Robert H. Thompson. Chairman Dave Wright asked First District Commissioner Evelyn Gill for her candidate for the board and she nominated Patricia William. All appointments passed unanimously.

Commissioners Randy Smith, Michelle Carringer and Ed Brantley had questions about the adoption of a new Personnel Plan that included new language involving the firing of employees and exempting department heads who are elected if they choose to opt out and set their own plans.

Deputy Law Director Myers Morton responded to the questions and Law Director Bud Armstrong chimed in and added that elected department heads have 30 days to declare they are opting out and setting their own policies. The Sheriff's Department and the Knox County Clerk's Department apparently will set their own employee policies.

Carringer asked if the county can't opt out of the state-recommended policy and Armstrong replied that that option isn't on the motion before the commission. Tennessee is a Right to Work State and, under the new policy, the county officials may fire an employee without cause. The appeal is now left up to the dismissed employees who challenge the firing and take their cases to court.

County-elected department heads may also opt out in January.

"This is the policy—everyone does their own thing?" Brantley asked.

Myer said that if a department head doesn't choose to opt out they will fall under the new policy. Also within the mass overhaul of the rules governing employees are new rules permitting 15 minute breaks for breast-feeding mothers, prohibitions on smoking vapor cigarettes, and forbidding email and internet abuse.

The commission voted unanimously to adopt the final reading of the new Personnel Plan.

Other actions in Monday's meeting included setting a date for the new commissioners to receive an orientation from the Sheriff's Department. Nystrom suggested the commissioners get a "ride along" with a sheriff's deputy.

Postponed until the next commission meeting was a resolution approving a database for the courts. Commissioner Brad Anders withdrew a motion to transfer the Mead's Quarry to Ijams Nature Center.

Our Neighborhoods

Before the founding of Knoxville

By Mike Steely
steelym@knoxfocus.com

Today at 11:30 the city will celebrate "The Founding of Knoxville" at The Foundry on the World's Fair Park grounds. Jack Neely and Bill Landry will talk during the event, highlighting the 225-year history of the town. If Knoxville wasn't Knoxville until 1791, what came before?

Long ago, before the state of Tennessee and even before the Southwest Territory, there was a jurisdiction in our area called Washington County, Tennessee, continues to carry the name. Today only Washington County, Tennessee, continues to carry the name. The early settlers in Tennessee wanted and requested the creation of the district so they could establish courts and elect representatives to the North Carolina assembly.

That state gave the district to the federal government in 1789 and the Territory South of the River Ohio, or Southwest Territory, was created.

Washington County lasted only about a year before it officially became the Washington District. This came at a time when the Cherokee allied with the British and attacked isolated East Tennessee settlements. Obviously in 1776 the United States had declared independence from England and the creation of the new North Carolina jurisdiction didn't sit well with that Native American tribe, who saw violations of earlier treaties and launched a war that lasted a year before the treaty that expanded "legal" settlement in the Watauga and Nolichucky valleys.

From that "district" came the counties of Sullivan, Davidson, Green, Washington, Davidson, Hawkins, and Sumner.

Today only Washington County, Tennessee, continues to carry the name. The early settlers in Tennessee wanted and requested the creation of the district so they could establish courts and elect representatives to the North Carolina assembly. That state gave the district to the federal government in 1789 and the Territory South of the River Ohio, or Southwest Territory, was created.

Early East Tennessee settlers found themselves in confusion over land ownership. Some had settled with or without land grants from North Carolina, the Southwest Territory or the new state of Tennessee. Eventually, in 1806, the new state of Tennessee was given the right to issue land grants.

Along what would become the state line between the Volunteer State and the Bluegrass State much confusion resulted. Land grants along the invisible line had been issued by Virginia and then Kentucky. Surveyed initially by Dr. Thomas Walker, the early explorer got frustrated by the mountains along the border and sailed down the Cumberland River to the area that is now Nashville and estimated the boundary all the way back to Cumberland Gap. He missed it badly and a 6- to 12-mile strip was claimed by both states.

The dispute wasn't settled until 1826. The grants by Kentucky were called "South of the Walker Line" and ended up being mostly in Tennessee. The territory got the nickname "Kennessee" and that term pretty well described the area.

Long before the founding of Knoxville, Native Americans inhabited the area and ceremonial and burial mounds give evidence of that. By the time of European visitors the Cherokee were located along the Little Tennessee between Lenoir City and Tellico Plains. So the area

Before Knoxville became Knoxville Charles McClung laid out the proposed city and lots were sold. The location, at the junction of First Creek and the Holston River, was originally the property of General James White, founder of White's Fort.

was basically uninhabited and used as a hunting area by the Cherokee to the south and the Shawnee to the north.

The Spanish apparently visited the Knoxville area in the 1500s and there are indications of that in Dandridge and here and there in East Tennessee.

By 1770 white people began inhabiting isolated settlements in our area. James White built White's Fort in 1786 overlooking what was then the Holston River, now the Tennessee River. White's Fort or his home, was dismantled and stored for years before being rebuilt at the current location of the historic complex. The Revolutionary War veteran bought a large tract along First and Second Creeks. Other early settlers arrived including the families of Sevier, McClung, Williams, Adair, Cunningham, Gibbs, Sawyers, Hall, Cavitt, Continue on page 2

Join your neighbors for Night Out

By Mike Steely
steelym@knoxfocus.com

What are you doing Tuesday evening?

Did you know that many Knoxville neighborhoods are taking part in the "National Night Out" event to celebrate their communities, safe streets, and area pride? There are several neighborhood groups participating that have signed up with the Knoxville Police Department to hold events.

The Chilhowee Park Neighborhood will grill hotdogs and hamburgers during its annual cookout at the pavilion near the Beaman Street entrance to Chilhowee Park from 6 until 7:30 p.m.

The Laurel Place Condos Neighborhood Watch, just off Valley View Drive, will hold small gatherings throughout the neighborhood hosted by Block Captains from 6:30 until 8 p.m.

Old North Knoxville, Inc., will host a gathering with refreshments starting at 6 p.m. in the park at Oklahoma Avenue.

Moss Creek Villas Homeowners Association and the Woodale Drive/Central Avenue Pike Neighborhood Watch will host community events that evening.

The West Haven Village community will host a Night Out meeting at Table Church, 3108

Basswood, and offer pizza and iced tea. Neighbors are donating or soliciting prizes such as movie tickets, a Fandango gift card, free haircut coupons and cakes for a cake walk.

The Michael Meadowview Neighborhood Watch will host a hot dog event at God's House on Holston Drive.

The South Woodlawn Neighborhood Association will hold a Chili Cook-Off and Cumberland Estates will hold an October 6th event featuring chili and other foods at their recreation center.

Several neighborhoods, including the Delrose Drive

Neighborhood Watch, Black Oak Ridge, Lindberg Forest Town Hall East, Villa Gardens and Stratford Park Neighborhood Watch, are encouraging residents to take part by turning on their porch lights.

If it's a potluck supper you're craving you might want to prepare something and take it over to events being hosted by the Inskip Community Association, Harrill Hills Neighborhood Watch, Old Sevier Community Group, Westavia Woods Neighborhood Watch, Wesley Road Neighborhood Watch, Norwood Neighborhood Watch, Spring Hill Villas Homeowners Association, Spring Hill Villas Homeowners or the View Park Neighborhood Watch.

The Office of Neighborhoods has a list of the various National Night Out events around the city, with locations and contact information.

You can find the locations or more information about these and other neighborhood associations at the Knoxville Office of Neighborhoods website at www.knoxvilletn.org/neighborhoods.

If I knew then what I know now

I like mowing the yard. Sitting on a riding lawn-mower or pushing a mower or trimming with a weed eater is when I do some of my best thinking. I've solved some of my own problems

By Joe Rector
joerector@comcast.net

and come up with answers to world dilemmas while cutting blades of grass. The only hold up for me is that my luck with small engine equipment is nil. Most of the time, at least one of my machines is idle due to some malfunction.

As most folks now know, I am void of any knowledge of engines. On some occasions, I've tinkered with that little screw adjustment on the carburetor. Most often, my attempts to play Mr. Fix It end in the engine not running at all. Any sputtering that might have occurred is replaced with silence; the darn thing won't start.

I own two mowers. The first is a twenty-year-old John Deere riding mower. For years it cut my mother's grass, as well as mine. That equated to about two and one-half acres. Now the mower is used only at my house, but since I bought a piece of land that my mother had sold neighbors years ago, I still mow a bit more than two acres. This old mower is used to cut grass and weeds in wooded areas on either side of my house. In the fall, I grind up piles of leaves from the small forest. It's dusty work, so frequent oil changes and air filter replacements are needed. Those simple things I can perform.

This summer, the belt tension rod broke. Actually, the thing wore away from constant rubbing on other metal and from years of vibrations that come with driving over root-filled, uneven ground. I purchased a new rod assembly which consisted of a metal rod and spring; the cost was $95 plus tax. Sticker shock hit, but to fix the mower, the part was necessary. After getting the thing on the mowing deck,

I couldn't put the belt back on. I even printed out a diagram of how it should go on, but only when my good friend Joe Dooley came by did I see how the thing weaved itself around the pulleys.

I reattached the deck to the mower and put the drive belt back in place. It seemed too loose, so I called Bill Pate to ask if some adjustment should be made. He stopped by on his way home from the doctor, took one look, and informed me that the clutch was shot. The another trip to the parts store ended with pouring out another $200+. Of course, I was at the mercy of Bill to come by and remove the old one and install the new one.

My other mower is a zero-turn John Deere. I use it on the yard around my house. Sometimes I am forced to use it on the rest of the yard when the old mower is broken. Right after the warranty expired, the mowing deck cracked. I was informed that the cause was my washing it off while it was hot. HUH? I'm not handy, but neither am I an idiot. However, the store from which I bought the machine would not stand behind the thing. (No, I won't buy anything else from that dealer located on my side of town.)

Lately, the engine has been burning oil. I have to add the stuff every time I mow. This mower has approximately 275 hours of use on it, and it has been serviced as recommended. New mowers cost about $4000, so my only recourse is to run the one I have until it blows up. Then a new engine can be put on the thing...by someone else to whom I will pay a labor bill.

Blowers, weed eaters, pressure washers, and hedge trimmers all sit on shelves until I can afford to have them repaired. My inability to fix those machines is costing me a small fortune. This is another instance where I only wish I'd have taken a small engine class years ago; if only I knew then what I know now. As it is, my equipment sits idle and my yard looks awful until spare cash is found.

Rosie's World

Bits and pieces

After a long, hot summer, Autumn is finally here. How refreshing to feel cool breezes in the mornings and evenings. Here is what that famous Old Farmers Almanac predicts for the winter of 2017: Northeast--colder than normal and near normal snowfall. Southeast--mild with some snow. Sound familiar? I didn't add any other regions because these are the ones where my relatives live. I read somewhere that we had twelve dense fogs in August and the person who gave that little piece of information wanted to know if that meant we will get twelve snowstorms this winter--surely not! I think I will ask Todd Howell, the WBIR weatherman about that.

Do you put relish on your hot dogs and hamburgers? If you don't, you should, adds a delightful tang to them. And I have a delightful old recipe for making old-fashioned relish, handed down to me by a dear Mennonite friend. I know, there aren't many relish makers out there but there might be one or two who would like to follow this recipe.

- Grind in food chopper:
- 16 large peppers
 - 16 large onions
 - 1 peck green tomatoes
 - Add boiling water and boil 20 minutes.
- Then add:
- 1 pt. prepared mustard
 - 5 pts. sugar
 - 1 quart vinegar
 - 6 tsps. corn starch. Boil for a few minutes. Pour into jars and seal.

The population of the new town, called Knoxville after the U. S. Secretary of War Henry Knox, began to grow. Streets were designed, lots sold, and the little river city in East Tennessee became a hub of local commerce and a stopping-off place for settlers headed further into the state. When designating his son-in-law, Charles McClung, to lay out the city Gen. White told him to designate a site for the First Presbyterian Church. The church became the first church building within Knoxville and the cemetery there contains many graves of original settlers including General White.

Senator McKellar & The TVA

Part Two

Pages from the Past

By Ray Hill
rayhill865@gmail.com

Tennessee's senior United States senator, Kenneth D. McKellar, had finally abandoned his opposition to the construction of the Douglas Dam. For those who thought it signified some kind of surrender in his battle of wills with Tennessee Valley Authority Director David E. Lilienthal, they were very much mistaken.

Kenneth Douglas McKellar was perhaps the most accomplished feudist in the nation's Capitol. McKellar gave no quarter in his feuds, nor did he seek any.

Senator McKellar began what some referred to as his "annual spring offensive", introducing an amendment, which would require the Tennessee Valley Authority to pay its receipts into the federal treasury. McKellar also introduced an amendment that would require Senate confirmation of any federal employee earning more than $4,000 annually. McKellar also introduced a bill, which would have removed TVA's condemnation cases from being heard by commissions appointed by the courts to being heard by local citizen panels. Yet another McKellar bill called for Congress to approve the Tennessee Valley Authority's operating expenses.

Senator George Norris felt constrained to publicly defend Lilienthal on the Senate floor in the spring of 1942. According to Lilienthal's biographer, Steven Neuse, the Nebraska senator told his colleagues he would not place any other public official "above Mr. Lilienthal for honesty and integrity."

Senator Norris decried McKellar's onslaught against the TVA Director as more "in the nature of a stump speech."

Norris was defeated that same year, ending his long congressional career.

David Lilienthal made a conscious effort to travel across Tennessee and the junior senator from the Volunteer State, Tom Stewart, felt quite certain the TVA Director had lent aid and comfort to his opponent in the Democratic primary, if not outright support. Senator Stewart thoroughly disliked Lilienthal almost as much as McKellar.

Lilienthal spoke before the Jackson Rotary Club and dismissed Senator McKellar's amendments and legislation, which he equated as being against the Tennessee Valley Authority, as "pop pistol politics."

By 1944, the McKellar - Lilienthal feud had escalated, and Steven Neuse recorded the TVA Director describing the senator as "more violent and virulent than ever."

Senator McKellar opened a full frontal assault on David Lilienthal as Roosevelt administrators lined up against him. Senator McKellar snorted Lilienthal's contention his amendments would cripple the operation of the Tennessee Valley

Authority as little more than "propaganda."

"The statements made by Lilienthal and others and these amendments would cripple or destroy the TVA are wholly without foundation in fact," McKellar barked.

"Lilienthal today is lobbying by sending out falsehoods all over the state, using the government's money for the purpose of circulating this propaganda trying to save himself from an ignoble end which he knows is facing him," the senator charged.

Senator McKellar dismissed the rumors he was unhappy due to not receiving political patronage.

"Surely no one in Tennessee believes that at my age I am trying to obtain patronage," McKellar scoffed. "Lilienthal's statement to that effect is a willful, deliberate and malicious falsehood."

McKellar would publicly demand Lilienthal answer the question whether or not the senator had insisted upon making political appointments inside the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Director's answer would be ignored by McKellar's opponents.

Both McKellar and Stewart charged Lilienthal with interfering in Tennessee politics. Lilienthal wrote a letter to Alabama Senator John H. Bankhead, II (who had been McKellar's roommate in college) denying the allegations. Senator Stewart announced he would not support McKellar's amendment altering the Tennessee Valley Authority's financial setup.

Senator Alben Barkley, the Senate Majority Leader and a close personal friend of McKellar, told reporters he felt the issue between the Tennessean and Lilienthal was a personal one. "I don't think TVA ought to be punished in order to punish Lilienthal," Barkley said.

By May of 1944, Senator McKellar told his colleagues he felt David E. Lilienthal should be removed as Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Considering McKellar's dislike of Lilienthal, few, if any, of his fellow senators expressed surprise. Should Lilienthal not be removed, McKellar believed the TVA Director should be impeached "for violating the anti-trust laws of the United States."

Senator McKellar pointed out Lilienthal had approved agreements between the Tennessee Valley Authority and private power companies creating "a division of territory in which one sells and the other agrees not to sell."

Lilienthal baited McKellar, saying, "Senator, you are an old man, and probably haven't much time to live. You are doing a fellow human being an injustice in your position toward me. You don't want to carry that on your soul when it comes your time to go."

Lilienthal's gambit worked, disconcerting McKellar who screamed, "God damn, God damn, I have had enough of this. I am God damn tired of this, and I won't stand for it any longer."

Every appearance before Congress became an excruciating experience for Lilienthal. While testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee in 1946, Lilienthal admitted that he and the Tennessee senator had differed on matters of policy, but McKellar's "opposition" to TVA was "a matter of construction."

Senator McKellar demanded from the Chairman of the TVA Board of Directors just what construction he was referring to; McKellar asked Lilienthal to "name any appropriation that I ever refused to give the TVA for any dams."

Lilienthal was forced to confess that only in one instance, that of Douglas Dam, had McKellar held up any appropriation and in the end that, too, was funded. Pressed, Lilienthal said the policy disagreements between himself and Senator McKellar was confined to the "McKellar amendments," which would force the Tennessee Valley Authority to pay its receipts into the federal treasury. Lilienthal said he could think of no other policy disagreement.

David Lilienthal was officially appearing before the Appropriations Committee to request $10,666,000 more for TVA than had been approved by the House of Representatives. Lilienthal explained the extra money was for construction of the Watauga Dam, as well as the planning of the South Holston Dam. Senator McKellar immediately introduced an amendment to the appropriation for $17,666,000 so that construction could begin on both dams at once.

McKellar used Lilienthal's appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee to ask the TVA chairman if he had ever recommended anyone for a position inside the Tennessee Valley Authority. Lilienthal replied the senator had not.

Most everyone in Washington had been exhausted by K. D. McKellar's pursuit of David Lilienthal. Franklin D. Roosevelt's death in April of 1945 likely kept Lilienthal in public life for years to come. FDR had summoned Ed Crump, leader of the Shelby County machine, to the White House just shortly before he died. The topic of conversation was Kenneth McKellar. Roosevelt's legendary charm failed to beguile the Memphis Boss. FDR pressed Crump to urge McKellar to retire in 1946. The Boss replied McKellar would run again. Roosevelt quickly opined McKellar would lose and Crump calmly corrected the president and told him the senator would be reelected, as he was.

Roosevelt, disappointed he had made no headway with Crump, decided not to reappoint David E. Lilienthal to the Board of Directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority. FDR knew McKellar's influence in the Senate and was certain the Tennessean would declare Lilienthal "personally and politically obnoxious", making it unlikely that he could be reappointed.

Franklin Roosevelt was dead weeks later and Senator McKellar attended his funeral.

Harry Truman, the feisty man from Missouri, determined to reappoint Lilienthal despite the fury of McKellar. The president told his aide Jonathan Daniels of his intentions and chortled he realized McKellar would have "a shit hemorrhage."

Truman, a former member of the Senate, had been conciliatory with Congress and was still basking in the "honeymoon" phase of his administration when he renominated David Lilienthal to a new nine-year term as Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Truman's timing was impeccable and it defused much of the opposition McKellar could muster. Realizing he could not defeat Lilienthal on the Senate floor, the senator went ahead and informed his colleagues he found the nomination "personally obnoxious."

Both Senators McKellar and Stewart had voted against Lilienthal's confirmation, a largely symbolic gesture at that point. Senator Stewart said Lilienthal's reappointment was "a sour day for the whole South."

McKellar and Stewart had met with President Truman and later announced they would not actively oppose Lilienthal's nomination.

Senator McKellar had an even more unpleasant surprise in store just a year later.

President Harry Truman nominated David E. Lilienthal to serve as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission on October 28, 1946.

During August of that year, Senator McKellar took a leisurely trip back home to Tennessee after Congress had adjourned. He stopped in Bristol on his way to Memphis and was in excellent spirits. McKellar met with local reporters who expressed interest in the South Holston and Watauga Dams. President Truman had recommended both dams be delayed, but Senator McKellar was "confident" the work would proceed. McKellar noted the bill he had passed with reference to the two dams called for the work to resume on both projects immediately.

"And even Mr. Lilienthal is not above the law," McKellar had said with a wink of the eye.

McKellar had gone on to Knoxville where he was being feted by the American Legion state convention. One big reason for McKellar's exceptional good humor was that he had just been renominated in the Democratic primary for a sixth term. McKellar had beaten Edward Ward "Ned" Carmack, who had quite nearly defeated Tennessee's junior senator, Tom Stewart, four years previously.

"And you know," McKellar told a reporter, "I didn't make a single campaign speech or radio address until after the primary was over. I didn't even mention the name of a single one of my opponents."

It was true. McKellar, who had been ill much of the year, had not even come home to campaign and had dispatched a serious opponent with ease.

Senator McKellar's good mood positively evaporated in October.

President Truman had indicated he was considering Lilienthal to head the Atomic Energy Commission the first week of October and Senator McKellar immediately snapped, "I will do everything that I can to see that he is rejected."

"I would like mighty well to see him out of TVA but not to go on the atomic commission," McKellar added. "I would oppose any man in the world who isn't willing to pay the profits he makes for the government into the government's treasury."

As McKellar prepared to oppose the Lilienthal nomination to the Atomic Energy Commission, as well as that of Gordon Clapp to become Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority Board of Directions, the November elections brought a Republican majority to both houses of Congress. McKellar became acquainted with Knoxville attorney L. B. Bolt, who had been dismissed from TVA and told the senator the agency was under the influence of Communists. Aaron D. Purcell has written extensively on the Tennessee Valley Authority and his book White Collar Radicals: TVA's Knoxville Fifteen, the New Deal, and the McCarthy Era is an interesting read. Clearly some TVA employees had been Communist party members or flirted with Communism and Senator McKellar almost single handedly changed the focus of the hearings inside the Senate.

Unfortunately for Senator McKellar, some of the witnesses he brought before the committees were not highly creditable. The testimonial good humor was that he had just been renominated in the Democratic primary for a sixth term. McKellar had beaten Edward Ward "Ned" Carmack, who had quite nearly defeated Tennessee's junior senator, Tom Stewart, four years previously. "And you know," McKellar told a reporter, "I didn't make a single campaign speech or radio address until after the primary was over. I didn't even mention the name of a single one of my opponents." Mrs. Walsh cautioned the friend that she would do so once the hearings were out of the way, as McKellar was so focused on them that he had little time for anything else.

Eventually, both the David Lilienthal and Gordon Clapp nominations were confirmed by the Senate. By 1949, McKellar had announced he would not seek another term in the United States Senate. Thousands of the senator's friends in Tennessee urged him to change his mind, which he did. Early in 1951, Senator McKellar announced "God willing", he would be a candidate again in 1952.

Eighty-three years old in 1952, aging, and frequently infirm, Senator McKellar faced forty-four year-old Congressman Albert Gore in the Democratic primary and lost. McKellar went home to Memphis and his health became more precarious and he died October 25, 1957.

furnishings that included cabinets, a stove, and sewing machine. Lots of beautiful, handmade quilts were draped across the balcony and could be seen hanging inside the church sanctuary, also. A huge continental breakfast was served with a variety of delicious selections! Many church members dressed in their old-fashioned dresses and overalls. For those anxious to hear the old hymns, they were not disappointed. Music director Mike Tipton had a full slate of treasured hymns for the congregation to enjoy during the food and fellowship hour as well as the morning worship service. With banjo, violin, guitar, and keyboard music in the background, words of timeless hymns filled the rafters: "I Feel Like Traveling On," "The Unclouded Day," "I'll Fly Away," "Kneel at the Cross," and so many more. Even the children's choir sang a medley of hymns. Morning worship concluded with an inspirational message by long-time pastor, Rev. Jerry Vittatoo.

When I was six years old I had my tonsils and adenoids removed in the hospital. I don't remember much about that except I was given a lot of ice cream to eat. I do remember the clowns entering the hospital holding flowers and balloons, with their wide grins and colorful outfits, making children happy. Today we have clowns stalking around, abducting children and adults, making one fearful of them. What a sad, sad world this is!

Farragut beats Campbell County 38-28

By Alex Norman

If you like offense, you really liked last Thursday night's matchup between the Farragut Admirals and the Campbell County Cougars, a game between two teams ranked in the top 7 in the state in Class 5A. There were points a plenty for both teams. But in the end it was the visitors from west Knox County that had enough to get the job done.

Farragut beat Campbell County 38-28, to improve to 5-1 on the season. "Both teams played hard in a game where you are trying to stay in the hunt for a region championship and the opportunity to play a playoff game at home," said Farragut head coach Eddie Courtney.

On their second possession, it was the Cougars denting the scoreboard first. They capped off an 8 play, 64-yard drive with a one yard touchdown run by Elijah Phillips at the 5:07 mark of the first quarter out of the wildcat package. But it didn't take long for the Admirals to strike back. Starting a drive from their own 46, the Admirals moved the ball down the field primarily through the air. On third and goal from the six, Adam Fulton hit Braden Collins for a score. With 2:50 to go in the first quarter, the game was tied at 7.

Then the Cougars responded with the big play. Max Farris ran past the Admirals safeties, and Zach Rutherford let it fly. Farris made the catch at the 25 and jogged in from there. A 58-yard hookup made it 14-7.

On the first play of the second quarter, the Admirals tied the game, once again thanks in part to the right arm of Fulton and hands of Collins. A 28-yard connection evened things at 14.

Cougars running back Patrick Strunk fumbled on the Cougars next possession, and the Admirals recovered, taking over at the Campbell County 30. But the Cougars defense held the line, forcing an Admirals punt.

But the next time the Admirals offense got the ball, they didn't come away empty handed. And once again it was the Fulton to Collins combination. This time a pass play that covered 42 yards down to the middle of the end zone. With 8:31 to go in the first half, Farragut had its first lead, 21-14. "Adam Fulton and Braden Collins spend the extra time in improving their football skills," said Courtney. "Both are positive leaders on our team and work extremely hard to improve each day."

Late in the first half the Cougars got into the end zone again. Rutherford tossed it to a cutting Landon Reese on 3rd and goal from the 8. He ran it in, and the game was tied at 21 with 1:28 to go until intermission.

The score stayed that way until early in the third quarter. Farragut got a big play once again, this time on the ground. Cooper Hardin took the handoff, and ran 49 yards to the Cougars 6. Two plays later Hardin broke a couple of tackles and with 10:05 to go in the third quarter, the Admirals led 28-21.

Fortner powers Gibbs past Halls and into first place

By Steve Williams

The quarterback position is so important in football and that was very evident as Emory Road rivals Halls and Gibbs battled Friday night in Corryton.

Caden Harbin, the Red Devils' talented and versatile senior QB, helped get Halls off to a fast start and early lead but was sidelined with an injury midway through the second quarter and never returned.

Meanwhile, tough Gibbs quarterback HT Fortner went the distance and finished strong, leading the Eagles to a come-from-behind 21-10 victory.

Fortner, a 6-foot, 190-pound senior who started at middle linebacker the past two seasons, contributed significantly to Gibbs' physical style of play. He even blocked a field goal to keep Halls from expanding its 10-0 lead late in the opening quarter.

"This win means everything," said Fortner. "We own Emory Road and I hope it stays that way for a long time."

The win on Senior Night lifted Gibbs to 3-0 in Region 2-5A and 4-3 overall. The Eagles currently have sole possession of first place in their region and play a key game Friday at South-Doyle (2-1, 4-3). The Cherokees are coming off a big 22-10 win over West.

Halls (1-2, 4-2) will host Central in the Battle of Black Oak Ridge this Friday. The Red Devils will return to region play in a TV game at Powell on Oct. 13.

"Anybody that's lived around here knows this is a huge rivalry," said Gibbs head coach Brad Conley.

"The truth of the matter is in football we haven't always come out on the right end. I felt like last year we let one slip away. They played great and we didn't play our best. We felt like we needed to come out here tonight and play a better ball game.

Cherokees crash West High's homecoming party 22-10

By Ken Lay

South-Doyle High School's football team did a little party crashing Friday night. The Cherokees spoiled West High's homecoming and left Marble City with a big victory and near the top of the log jam that is the Region 2-5A standings.

"We control our own destiny," South-Doyle Coach Clark Duncan told his young squad after it handed the Rebels a 22-10 loss at Bill Wilson Field.

The Cherokees (4-3 overall, 2-1 in the region) scored on their first possession after the Rebels fumbled on their second offensive play.

South-Doyle's Ton'Quez Ball recovered a fumble by West's Hayden Shymlock at the Rebels' 37-yard line. From there, the Cherokees would engineer a six-play drive and get on the board when quarterback Caleb Wender scored on a 1-yard plunge. An extra point from Austin Morse gave the visitors a 7-0 lead with 9 minutes, 17 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

South-Doyle wouldn't trail on this night. The Cherokees stopped West on downs and blocked a punt before halftime.

"Our defense played great tonight," Duncan said. "We've played great football in our last three games including this one. I'm proud of these young guys."

"Two weeks ago, we fought hard in a loss against Halls but that game gave us some confidence. Then we came back and got a win against Carter and we beat a tremendous football team in West here tonight. It's fun to watch these guys grow up."

The Rebels (4-2, 2-1) did manage to score and tie the game at 7 in the latter stages of the opening stanza. West scored its lone touchdown of the contest when Zach Harshey connected with Jermaine Buchannon on a 46-yard scoring strike.

The Cherokees took a 10-7 lead when Morse kicked a 31-yard field goal midway through the second frame. That provided the slim halftime lead that the Cherokees enjoyed.

The two teams slugged through a scoreless fourth quarter before the Rebels pulled even on a short field goal by Logan Bowers early in the fourth quarter.

South-Doyle's defense would stiffen after West's final offensive production.

The Cherokees had a goal-line stand and turned the Rebels away late when junior linebacker Wesley Holt, who made big plays all night, deflected a pass on fourth down.

"Holt made some big plays for us tonight," Duncan said. "Our whole defense played well. West is a great team."

Holt played at South-Doyle in 2015 when the Cherokees didn't win a game. The junior said that things are different this season with the team in the heat of a playoff race.

"Last year was terrible," he said. "We didn't have intensity in practice. We went into the locker room at halftime and we felt sorry for ourselves."

"Now we have intensity in practice and we go into the locker room and we're fired up. That just shows how much we've grown and how much we love to play together."

The Cherokees also have a versatile offensive weapon in senior running back Kent-Ta Tanner, who scored a pair of rushing touchdowns after halftime to help the Cherokees nab a big regional win.

Tanner, who finished with 154 yards, had touchdown scampers of 20 and 71 yards respectively.

South-Doyle's win coupled with Gibbs High's win over Halls sets the stage for a big game between the Cherokees and Eagles on Oct. 14 in South Knoxville.

Gibbs and South-Doyle will both be idle this week.

A LOOK AHEAD, A GLANCE BACK

The colder the better says Austin-East coach

By Steve Williams

The weather is getting cooler and the playoff races hotter on the local high school football scene.

A nip in the air greeted players, fans and all involved for the first time this season Friday night.

"We prefer the weather to be hot but understand that you must be able to play in cold weather to win championships," said Austin-East head coach Jeff Phillips via e-mail after his Roadrunners shut out Oliver Springs 49-0 in a Region 2-2A game at A-E. "The colder the game the better we are doing."

Phillips and the Roadrunners, currently 5-1, hope to be playing in December in Cookeville, site of the TSSAA state championship games.

"Friday night's weather was pretty good," added Phillips. "The big boys obviously enjoyed it."

Austin-East, Sweetwater and Grace Christian Academy remain undefeated in region play.

In Region 2-3A, Alcoa and Christian Academy of Knoxville are both 3-0 and 6-1 overall. They will tangle in the final week of regular season play at CAK.

Maryville and Bradley Central are both unbeaten in Region 1-6A and will clash in Week 10 in a game that will be televised on MyVLT.

WANTING A WIN: One of the top attractions this week will pit Karns at Powell in a matchup of two 0-6 teams. The first win of the season will be up for grabs when the Beavers and Panthers square off.

Other headliners this Friday include Gibbs at South-Doyle, Central at Halls, Farragut at West and Jefferson County at Hardin Valley.

Thursday night's MyVLT game matches Coalfield at Greenback - two of the state's top Class 1A teams. Both are undefeated.

CAK travels to Clinton Friday in a game that can be seen on 10News2.

CLIMBING UP: After its impressive Week 6 win over Gibbs, Fulton has climbed to No. 14 in Sonny Moore's computer power ratings that includes all eight classifications of Tennessee high school football.

Knoxville Catholic remains No. 1 in the "overall" state ratings. Other local teams in the Top 25 are No. 4 Maryville, No. 17 Alcoa and No. 18 Oak Ridge.

PREPS OF THE PAST: Thirty years ago, on Sept. 26, 1986, Leroy Thompson, one of the nation's top prospects, ran for two touchdowns and 88 yards before leaving the game in Austin-East's 53-3 District 3-AA win over visiting West. Bosworth Hill's 66-yard interception return and a 55-yard punt return by Juan Robinson were big scoring plays for the Roadrunners in the second quarter. A-E was in charge 27-3 at halftime, with Ed McSwine's 21-yard field goal preventing the Rebels from being shut out.

Robinson also caught a 33-yard TD pass in the third quarter from quarterback Mossy Taylor, who had three PAT kicks, and Fred Lowery threw two scoring passes to Eric Fair. Robinson added a TD run from the 5 in the final quarter.

Team effort nets volleyball sweep for Farragut

By Ken Lay

When District 4-AAA volleyball rivals Hardin Valley Academy and Farragut tangled on Monday, Sept. 26 there wasn't much at stake.

The two squads had already played their scheduled league match with the Lady Admirals prevailing.

The two rivals usually play twice with one match being a non-league showcase.

Farragut won this one in straight sets (25-19, 25-15, 25-19) at Lynn E. Sexton Gymnasium.

The Cougars (6-1) punched right back, and Phillips scored from a yard out for the second time on the evening. The game was tied at 28 with 6:57 to go in the third quarter.

But those would be the final points scored by the Cougars. It looked like they'd take the lead with just over four minutes remaining in that quarter, but a Logan Phillips fumble inside the Admirals 20 ended those hopes.

It looked like the Admirals would be punting the football away, but a Bradley Kidwell facemask call kept that Farragut drive alive.

And then on third and 13, Fulton scrambled out of trouble, threw it to Jack Devault, who ran it down to the Cougars' 7.

On the very next play Hardin took the handoff, broke a couple of tackles, and kept the legs churning. The pile pushed him over the goal line, and with under a minute to go in the third, Farragut was up 35-28.

On the Admirals next possession it was a huge 47 yard field goal from Under Armour All-American Joe Doyle that gave Farragut a 10 point cushion with under 9 minutes remaining. The rest of the way the Admirals defense came through with stops and forced turnovers.

"We work on a turnover circuit where we emphasize the fundamentals and stress their importance," said Courtney.

They started fast. Our kids didn't give up. I'm really proud of them."

Halls Coach J.D. Overton praised the play of reserve quarterback Aaron Spoon but said his team missed Harbin's vertical passing game.

Harbin was on the passing end of a Halls touchdown on the game's first play from scrimmage.

He tossed a screen pass to Matthew Runge Gold, who sped 67 yards to paydirt. Briggs Marcantel's PAT kick made it 7-0 with only 22 seconds off the clock.

Gibbs went three and out and JT Freels took the Eagles' punt to the house, but the score was nullified by a block in the back. The Red Devils also were assessed an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty, which put them back at their 12-yard line.

Halls drove to midfield before Harbin executed a rugby punt. The Eagles were penalized for roughing the kicker and the Red Devils' offense got a fresh set of downs.

Demarcus Hight (left) and HT Fortner team up to tackle Halls quarterback Caden Harbin in Region 2-5A action Friday night. The Eagles came from behind to win 21-10 and stay unbeaten in region play.

Devils couldn't overcome a holding penalty and settled for a 32-yard field goal by Marcantel.

Gibbs muffed the kickoff and Sheldon James recovered to keep the Eagles' offense on the sideline. Halls picked up a first down on a 10-yard run by Cooper Cook but once again had to settle for a field goal attempt. The 34-yarder was blocked by Fortner with a minute to go in the quarter.

The Eagles' well-rested offense responded. Noel

Leyva broke loose for a 46-yard gain and Demarcus Hight scored from the 4 on a pitch left. Gabe Martin's PAT cut the Halls lead to 10-7.

All of a sudden, the Eagles had come alive. A pass interference call on Gibbs let Halls out of a hole, but three plays later, Bailey Sivyer picked off Harbin's last pass in the game at midfield.

Fortner ran 18 yards to the Halls 15 and a dead ball unsportsmanlike penalty on the Red Devils moved the ball to the 7. Fortner faked a handoff on a dive play and kept it for the go-ahead TD with 5:45 showing on the second quarter clock. It was 14-10 Gibbs.

Gold had a long return on the ensuing kickoff but a personal foul brought it back to the Halls 26.

On its first possession in the second half, Halls called a timeout on fourth-and-2 at its 41 and appeared to be going for the first down. A false start, however, pushed the ball back five yards and forced a punt.

A 12-yard pass from Spoon to Sean Maddigan gave the Red Devils a first down at the Gibbs 41 late in the third quarter. Dalton Rodgers, however, recovered Cook's fumble on the next play to end the threat.

With 5:30 left in the game, Fortner ran 14 yards on fourth-and-four at the Halls 43. He scored the game's final touchdown on a 32-yard run with 4:03 to go.

Dalton Wright intercepted a first down pass by Spoon at the Halls 48 and the Red Devils would not get the ball back again.

Fortner took a knee at the Halls 4 on the game's final play.

Narrow win helps Bearden secure home field in tourney

By Ken Lay

Bearden High School girls soccer coach might've seen his young squad win the District 4-AAA regular-season championship Thursday night.

But the Lady Bulldogs coach knows that his team's 1-0 victory over Hardin Valley Academy at Bruce Allender Field doesn't guarantee very much.

He learned that the hard way in 2015.

"If this were the boys [team] this would've automatically moved us on to the regionals," Radcliffe said after the Lady Bulldogs, who were knocked out of the District 4-AAA Tournament in last season's semifinals as the top seed.

"All this gives us is home field advantage throughout the tournament; and here, you have four pretty good teams [Bearden, Farragut, the Lady Hawks and Maryville], and unfortunately, two of us are going to knock each other out."

That's exactly what happened last year. The Lady Rebels ousted the top-seeded Lady Bulldogs while Hardin Valley upset second-seeded Farragut on its way to a second consecutive Class AAA State Tournament.

"It was great to see these girls win a regular-season championship but I told them before the game that the real season hasn't begun yet," Radcliffe said. "The real season begins when you're playing for your life every night."

The district tournament opens Saturday, Oct. 8 with the Lady Bulldogs at home. Then, the pressure goes up. In the boys league, the regular-season champion advances to the Region 2-AAA Tournament thanks to a coaches' vote after upsets were prevalent several years ago. For the girls, no such reservation exists. Teams must win two games to advance. The top five teams, including West High, could possibly advance with some lucky bounces. Lenoir City may also be a factor.

As for Thursday night, Ashtyn Glover's 30-yard free kick represented the only scoring of the match. It came in the 28th minute.

The Lady Hawks (11-2-1 overall, 5-1-1 in District 4-AAA) had their chances. They outshot the Lady Bulldogs (9-3-2, 5-0-2) 12-6

Diabetes and Erectile Dysfunction Does Anything Actually Work? The Answer Is "Yes!"

Diabetes — It is estimated that about 35% to 75% of men with diabetes will experience at least some degree of erectile dysfunction, also called ED or impotence, during their lifetime. Men with diabetes tend to develop erectile dysfunction 10 to 15 years earlier than men without diabetes. As men with diabetes age, erectile dysfunction becomes even more common. Above the age of 50, the likelihood of having difficulty with an erection occurs in approximately 50% to 60% of men with diabetes. Above age 70, there is about a 95% likelihood of having some difficulty with erectile dysfunction.

Erectile dysfunction is a fact of life. Whether it occurs due to an accident, a recent surgery (prostate cancer is the biggie), diabetes, or simply due to aging, the accompanying loss of self-esteem is something that effects millions of men every day. And in a nutshell, that seems to be the problem - every man's ED problem is different and requires different treatment. Not all treatment solutions for Erectile Dysfunction are the same. It is important to see Somebody who Specializes in Men's Sexual Health.

After extensive research, the only approach that makes sense comes from companies such as TN Men's Health Clinic. Regardless of your age, Regardless of your medical history... they have satisfied patients ranging from 28 to 88... but Lady Bulldogs junior goalkeeper Abby Mink, a three-year starter, kept HVA at bay.

"Their keeper did a great job against us," Lady Hawks coach Nick Bradford said. "We played well enough to score goals but their team defense was great.

"My kids played hard and I'm extremely proud of them this year. I'm their third coach in three years and they've been to the state tournament two years in a row. They have high expectations for themselves."

Mink stopped 12 shots. She also got some help from the goalposts and the crossbar. She made a brilliant save against Paige Hewitt, one of the county's top snipers to keep the Lady Hawks off the board.

And Radcliffe was the first to credit his netminder.

"She doesn't always get a lot of credit and she'll tell you that I'm on her all the time," Radcliffe said. "She provides great leadership for us back there but I stay on her because I think she can be even better."

Mink, always the team player, didn't want all the credit.

"This was just an all-around team win and I was just happy to be a part of it," she said. "You practice so much and you work so hard that it's great to come out here and win this game and to win this championship.

"We're looking forward to the tournament and we certainly want to keep this going a little longer than we did last year."

week's District 4-AAA Tournament wasn't impacted, the match could've very well served as a preview of Thursday's tournament championship tilt at Hardin Valley Academy.

And Lady Hawks second-year coach Mitzi McCurry said she hoped that her team took away a lesson from its last trip to Farragut last week.

"Farragut came in here and they were ready to play. That's what great teams do," said McCurry, who guided Hardin Valley to a second-place finish in the regular-season standings. "Our kids have worked hard this season and we've had a good season.

"But tonight, they came in ready to play and they never let up. We just have to learn to come in and we have to come in ready to go."

Farragut (35-4) took control of the first set early. The Lady Admirals, who have reached the Class AAA State Tournament in Murfreesboro in each of the last three seasons (and made it to the championship match in both 2014 and 2015), can use hot service runs to put opponents away. Farragut did so last Monday when senior libero Madi Howell, a Clemson commitment, served up seven consecutive points to help the home team open a 17-9 lead. From there, Farragut never trailed in the set again.

"Madi served great," Lady Admirals Coach Susan Davidson said. "She also had 21 digs and played a great match."

As usual, the Lady Admirals, who have won 28 consecutive district tilts over the past three seasons, received contributions from all over the court.

Anne Abernathy finished with 10 kills, three aces and five digs. Shelby Grace Rawls had 13 kills, five digs and seven blocks. Caroline Bower had five kills and five blocks and senior Alexis Parker finished with 15 kills, three blocks and two digs.

"I'm just proud of all these girls," Davidson said. "They continue to play well and they continue to fight. This was a good match for us.

"Hardin Valley is the No. 2 team in our district. They're a good team and this was a good tight match.

Beka Hampton led HVA with five kills and four blocks.

Farragut quickly seized the upper hand in the final two sets and went on to cruise to victory against the Lady Hawks (26-6).

The Lady Admirals posted a sweep of Oak Ridge the road Tuesday night. Farragut prevailed 25-14, 25-17, 25-14 as the two squads played in their annual pink-out contest. Proceeds from that match are donated to breast cancer research.

Local golfers shine in postseason tournaments

By Ken Lay

The postseason kicked into high gear last week for area golfers and some came home after stellar performances as area high schools competed for district, regional and state titles.

Both teams from Webb School of Knoxville were in their respective Division II-A State Tournament at WillowBrook Country Club in Manchester,

The Spartans finished fourth and one of their athletes, eighth grader Reece Britt, carried a top-10 finish. Britt came in eighth and led Webb to a fourth-place finish on high school golf's grand stage. He posted a two-day 36-hole total of 154 for the Spartans, who came in behind St. George's (624), Franklin Road Academy (636) and University School of Jackson (639). Webb completed play with a team score of 664.

Other Spartans in last week's state championships included Ben Wofford, who finished with a 36-hole score of 163. He tied for 15th in the individual standings. Palmer Bradshaw and Eli Mays tied for 27th (174) while Ben Troutman carded a 180 and finished 30th.

The Lady Spartans, meanwhile, finished sixth and had three golfers place in the top-15.

Alexis Hartwig led the way with a two-round total of 193. She came in 13th. Shelly Bergner (194) finished 14th. Kalina Scarbrough carded a 195 and was 15th. Webb's team score was 383.

St. Mary's won the event with a team score of 317.

In the Region 2-A/AA Boys Tournament in Sevierville: Catholic High School won the title and advances to Manchester for the State Tournament, which begins Tuesday.

The Irish won the event by one stroke. Catholic (302) edged Alcoa (303) and defending champion Christian Academy of Knoxville (317).

Kyle Cottam of the Irish finished fourth with a 72.

The Tornados had the low medalist as he fired a 67. Other individual qualifiers included Carter's Jake Mynatt, Grace Christian Academy's Luke Scealf and CAK's Cade Russell.

The Warriors were without Davis Shore, their top golfer. He was in Minnesota at the Junior Ryder Cup and helped the United States retain the Junior Ryder Cup. The USA won the biannual event 15.5-8.5 over Europe.

In the Region 2-A/AA Girls Tournament: CAK's Caroline Cavin fired a 73 to claim Low Medalist honors. She teamed with Emma Wasson (75) to help the Lady Warriors defend their 2015 region championship.

Grace Christian's Virginia Pirkle also qualified for state by shooting an 83 last week.

In District 3-AAA: Halls High School claimed both the boys and girls championship early last week at Millstone.

Ryan Hall led the Red Devils with a 67 as Halls won easily. Central took second (321) and Powell was third (330).

The Lady Devils

also claimed the team championship as Shelby Liford had a 72 and Harper Cherry recorded a 73. Halls (145) beat runner-up Central by 21 strokes while Anderson County took third (176).

Alyssa Montgomery, a sophomore for the Lady Bobcats, edged Liford by one stroke to claim Low Medalist honors. Montgomery repeated as Region 2-AAA Champion at Tennessee National on Wednesday.

Both Halls squads went on to capture Region 2-AAA Championships and will be in action in Manchester on Oct. 11-12 at the Class AAA State Tournament.

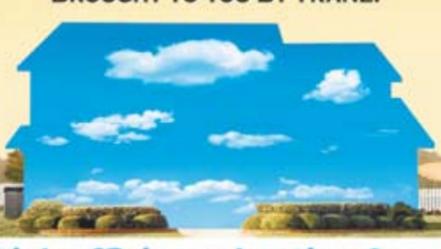

In District 4-AAA on Monday: Farragut's boys need a playoff to beat rival Bearden on Monday, Sept. 26 The Bulldogs and the Admirals each shot 320 before Farragut prevailed in the playoff. Maryville was third and finished just three shots behind the two Kingston Pike rivals.

Heritage's Brandon Nichols won the individual championship with a 73.

In the girls championship, Farragut's Emily Keeling captured Low Medalist honors with a 75 and led the Lady Admirals to another district championship.

Farragut finished with a team score of 153. Lenoir City was second (174) and Maryville claimed third (176).

By Steve Williams

For Halls High's talented boys golf team, it's been a two-part plan all season long. Get past Farragut in the region and go after the state championship.

Check off No. 1. With junior Ryan Hall's sizzling 67 leading the way, the Red Devils dominated the Region 2-AAA tournament with a 19-stroke margin of victory over its closest challenger – and it wasn't even perennial power Farragut – Wednesday at Tennessee National in Loudon.

Following Halls' 291 team score were Bearden at 310, Maryville at 324 and Farragut at 329. Powell (348) and Central (357) completed the field.

Only the team champion and top four individual scorers not on the winning team qualify for the TSSAA Class AAA state event, which will be held Oct. 11-12 at WillowBrook Golf Club in Manchester.

"The goal is definitely to win the state championship and I think we have the talent to do it," said Alex Hodge, the lone senior on the Halls squad. "That's our mindset from here on out."

Added Hall: "We're not going to be happy with second place. We're wanting to win."

Hodge carded a 73 on the par 72 course. Junior teammates Jake Hall and Anthony Basilio contributed 75 and 76, respectively. Will Collins shot 81.

Only the top four scores figure into each team's total.

Ryan Hall thought he "definitely played good" in shooting five-under-par to take medalist honors.

"I hit my driver and irons solid," said the University of South Carolina commitment. "I only missed two greens all day and I was bogey free."

Ryan had three birdies and an eagle. Starting on the back nine, he shot two-under on the backside and three-under on the front.

"It was a solid day," he added. "I just hit a lot of greens. Made some (putts)

Alex Hodge, left, and Ryan Hall led Halls to the Region 2-AAA golf championship last week at Tennessee National. Hall was the tourney medalist and Hodge the runner-up. Coach Bill Warren's Red Devils now have their sights set on the state title.

and missed some."

Hodge's one-over round earned him second place. Bearden's Bogle LaRue, Maryville's Matthew Copeland and Farragut's Steven Haremski each shot 74 to tie for third and earn state berths. Bearden's Bryson Morrell (75) got the final qualifying spot.

Winning the region title to make the state was very satisfying for Hodge since it was his last chance.

"I'd say this is the best team I've been on in my four years of high school," he said. "We have a lot of talent."

"A couple of us haven't been to state yet, but the goal is definitely to win."

Ryan Hall has a lot of state tourney experience as he qualified as an individual his freshman and sophomore seasons.

"I've played eight times there in all and four tournament rounds," he said.

All state participants are granted a practice round on the Monday prior to the tourney.

"There are some good teams like Brentwood and Science Hill who could be at the state, if they win their region," added Ryan.

Halls' girls team made it a sweep at the region and also are state bound. The Lady Red Devils posted a 157 score, with individual runner-up Shelby Liford, a sophomore, carding a 74, senior Harper Cherry 83 and junior Savannah Johnson 93. In the girls division, the top two individual scores make up the team score.

Farragut's girls (162) finished five shots behind Halls. Lenoir City (170) was third, followed by Maryville at 175, Central at 186 and Anderson County at 195.

Central sophomore standout Alyssa Montgomery took medalist honors with a 71. Farragut's Domitille Chambon (79), Bearden's Alexandra Dixon (80) and Lenoir City's Ella Morton (82) rounded out the top five and also qualified for the state.

FLYING HIGH: Seymour's boys won their first district golf crown since moving up to Class AAA when they combined for a 324 score in District 2-AAA at The Country Club in Morristown last week.

Noah Phillips led the Eagles with a 79. Wesley Jones and Eli Jenkins each added an 81 and Carson Atkins contributed an 83.

Jefferson County placed second with a 330 total and Morristown West (334) was third. Spencer Cross of Sevier County, defending state champion who has committed to UT, took medalist honors with a 70.

Seymour advances to the Region 1-AAA tourney which will be played today (Oct. 3) in Jonesborough at Blackthorn Club at The Ridges.

The Seymour girls finished second in the district and were led by medalist Katelyn Witucki, who shot a 76. Cocke County captured the girls' team title.

In District 1-AAA, Science Hill's boys and Dobyns-Bennett's girls took top team honors. Tennessee High's boys and girls teams placed second.

Blood Sport

I made myself tune in to the first Presidential debate. I felt it was my civic duty to consider these two pugilists, one of whom will be our next President. Unfortunately, these so-called debates have become spectacle, hyped by the truly despicable and dishonest mainstream media. These creatures still describe themselves as "journalists," though long ago sold their integrity and their souls. Now they just foam at the mouth like rabid dogs at the mention of Republicans, conservatives, evangelicals or Trump.

As I watched the debate spectacle, the movie Gladiator came to mind. This movie chronicles the life of a Roman soldier who was unjustly condemned to death and finally sold into slavery as a gladiator. Blood sport was common during the Roman Empire, where people or animals were slaughtered to entertain the screaming and lusty masses. In fact, Emperors provided "bread and circus" (welfare and entertainment) to placate the mob - EBT cards and reality TV are modern day equivalents. Gladiators battled to the death in the Coliseum. They were also used to execute criminals and Christians, a common practice in first century Rome.

Modern day equivalents of blood sport include bull fights, cock fighting and perhaps Presidential debates, which metaphorically splatter the podiums with blood. Actually, I dislike debates and turned off the contrived battle after less than half way through. Perhaps the only reason there wasn't actual blood-letting was because neither of the combatants was armed with a gladiatorial trident or gladius (sword). Actually, everyone but the "drive-by media" knows America needs a leader not a debater. We need straight talk not more election year pabulum and Orwellian "double-speak."

Many complain that Trump and Clinton, our two "champions," are not Presidential, but then you'd have to define the term. The historical definition has been so tarnished over the last eight years that I doubt a definition is now possible. Democracy is messy, and as Churchill once said, "Democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others." The American people selected their Presidential nominees, though Bernie Sanders may disagree. I've accepted the nominees, though neither were my first, second or even third choice. As I consider my vote, I reflect on a lesson I learned from involvement with a civil lawsuit years ago. I learned that if you go to court you must have a champion (lawyer) to battle in the arena for you. So I ask, would you send Trump or Clinton into the Coliseum as your champion to fight for America's best interests and its survival?

A friend of mine once challenged me with the notion that all facts are conditional. When I objected to his unsettling assertion, he further opined that even scientific observations begin with basic assumptions which may be correct or erroneous. The point is that no one can be truly objective because we carry our prejudices and bias into any situation, even scientific experiments or "fact checking." Rene Descartes understood that even our senses could not be trusted. So, he sealed himself in a dark room in an attempt to remove external influences and finally concluded, "Cogito ergo sum," or I think therefore I am.

I'm skeptical of the "fact checking" phenomena which is especially pervasive in politics these days. Those who use the Internet find it a wonderful tool for exploring and finding answers. However, as with everything and everyone, there is the potential for fact and fancy, good and bad and everything in between. Sometimes people attach greater relevance to a visual image or the written word. The photo shopping technique possible with digital images has led to the exclusion of pictures in some courts of law. And yet, people trust various web sites like Snopes and the Washington Post "Fact Checker" as gospel, never thinking that these sites are run by people and "journalists" who have inherent bias.

The Gospeler John quoted the Master who once said, "I am the way and the truth and the life" (John 14:6). Jesus did not say he was the fact because I suspect he recognized that there is a big difference between fact and truth. I'm sure he understood that all our science, observations and facts break down in certain situations. All our knowledge breaks down at the event horizon of a black hole or at the quantum level. Truth, however, is an amalgam of facts/data after they are parsed within our brains and hearts - a place we call conscience, where intuition and gut feelings resonate. I read recently that the mainstream media take what Trump says literally, but does not take him seriously. On the other hand, Trump supporters take Trump seriously, but don't take what he says literally. These diverse perspectives demonstrate inherent bias and belief systems at work. The major news media have admittedly abandoned any pretense of objectivity where Trump is concerned, and therefore fact checking by NPR, CNN and the Washington Post/New York Times is highly suspect.

So what should we do? I recommend you go to the candidates web sites and read their position statements. You can also listen to their speeches and if you have the stomach for blood sport watch the debates. God gave us the tools to find answers and the brains to analyze "facts" and to distinguish fanciful lies from truth.

Mrs. Clinton, you should know that the designation "deplorables" goes both ways in our dualistic universe. Stating that so many American citizens are deplorable, is far worse than Romney's recognition that 47% of Americans were disinclined to vote for him.

The ancient eastern concept of dualism holds that when you imagine anything you can conceive of its opposite. Examples are yin and yang, matter and antimatter, God and the Devil, the blessed ones and the deplorables.

You see it goes both ways, Mrs. Clinton. I find your policies, your dishonesty, your poor judgement and your lack of integrity deplorable. I regularly pray that you will be "driven upon [your] knees by the overwhelming conviction that [you] have nowhere else to go." That was Abraham Lincoln's conviction and hopefully God's plan for you.

National Animal Safety and Protection Month

By Howard Baker, RN BSN

October is National Animal Safety and Protection Month. Hobo the Wonder Dog wants to do everything possible to help prevent unnecessary illnesses and injuries that come with being a dog. Regular veterinarian visits is the first step in preventing illness and building awareness of potential hazards to your pet. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Hobo's illness and injury prevention starts with regular visits to his veterinarian, a well-stocked first-aid kit, regular dental checkups, regular exercise, heartworm / flea prevention and pet health insurance. I believe having pet health insurance is part of a comprehensive safety and protection plan for your pet. Having pet insurance allows me the peace of mind knowing no matter what—I have the financial means to make a decision based on what is medically in the best interest of my pet without regard to finances.

When I first started building a pet first-aid kit I thought it was complicated and daunting. I did a little research and discussed first aid with our veterinarian and soon realized pet first aid is not much different than one for us. The following are my suggestions for supplies needed for a pet first-aid kit. I always recommend consulting with your veterinarian for advice on supplies and medications needed specifically for your pet.

- Dog / cat First Aid book
- Gauze sponges in various sizes
- Gauze cotton rolls various widths
- Coban® self-adhering wrap
- Towel / cloth
- Emergency blanket
- Exam gloves disposable
- Cold compress
- Baking Soda
- Epsom salts
- Sterile saline eye wash
- Sterile eye lubricant
- Isopropyl Alcohol (rubbing alcohol)
- Petroleum Jelly
- Water base lubricant
- Diphenhydramine (Benadryl®) general dosing is 1mg per pound. Make sure the formulation contains diphenhydramine only and no other ingredients.

Discuss medications with your veterinarian when stocking your first-aid kit.

- 3% Hydrogen peroxide
- Pedialyte
- Antibiotic ointment
- Styptic Powder (Stops bleeding from broken nails)
- Nylon slip leash
- Muzzle size appropriate for your dog NEVER use a muzzle on a dog having difficulty breathing or vomiting
- Bandage Scissors
- Tweezers / Wire Cutters / Needle-nose pliers / disposable razors or clippers
- Rectal Thermometer (not glass)
- Penlight / Nail Clippers (appropriate for your dog's nails)

Supplies should be kept in a sturdy box such as a tackle box. Routinely
