

Photo: Courtesy of the Knoxville Sports Commission

Vintage Knoxville teams open on 'base ball' history

The Knoxville Sports Commission is proud to announce the opening of the 2014 season of the Knoxville Sports Commission's Vintage Baseball Series. The series is a celebration of the city's rich baseball history, featuring teams from the early 20th century. The teams will be playing in the city's historic ballparks, and the series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage. The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage. The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage.

The Knoxville Sports Commission is proud to announce the opening of the 2014 season of the Knoxville Sports Commission's Vintage Baseball Series.

The series is a celebration of the city's rich baseball history, featuring teams from the early 20th century. The teams will be playing in the city's historic ballparks, and the series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage. The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage.

The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage. The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage. The series will be a great way to experience the city's baseball heritage.