

Sawyer Dyer awaits the start of his homecoming parade with his family and Knox County Sheriff's deputies.

Faith, family and community converge to celebrate a miracle

By Nichole Butler

Johnny Sawyer Dyer just wanted to go home. But even the imagination of a seven-year-old from leukemia

Smiling faces lined both sides of Sycamore Pike all the way from Fairview Road to Harbersky who came up with the idea and plan for the homecoming celebration.

"The inspiration for the parade has gone well beyond the borders of the Gibbs community, and is even touching people throughout the U.S. But in the end, she said, bers against each other and saw various representatives of AMR/Busby/Metro responding to questions about billing, service, response time and company ownership brought up, initially, by Commissioner Charles Butler. Commissioners Rustin Gil, Carson Daley and Michelle Carringer also had some pointed comments about the matter.

Commissioner Butler said that he wants to know more about FCR, the possible new owners of the parent company AMR, how 911 calls are distributed, and why an EMR Cost Review Board hasn't been named to oversee the agreement. AMR/Busby/Metro provides ambulance service in Knox County and the parent company also provides fire response.

Butler made a motion to re-bid the contract instead