

Now offering online reader service. Renewal by mail is available. FREE subscription for you!

Harry Tindell gets nod from City Council

Harry Tindell was elected to the City Council in the 2015 election. He is shown here with a woman, possibly a fellow council member or staff member.

Byline: Harry Tindell, 50, of the 10th district, was elected to the City Council in the 2015 election. He is shown here with a woman, possibly a fellow council member or staff member.

Byline: Harry Tindell, 50, of the 10th district, was elected to the City Council in the 2015 election. He is shown here with a woman, possibly a fellow council member or staff member.

Byline: Harry Tindell, 50, of the 10th district, was elected to the City Council in the 2015 election. He is shown here with a woman, possibly a fellow council member or staff member.

UNDER THE BIG TOP

A large group of people are seated at tables in a dining hall, many wearing red and white hats, possibly for a themed event.

Library to offer out of country books to Northshelby residents

The Northshelby Library is offering a new service to its patrons. The library will now offer out-of-country books to its residents. This service is available to all Northshelby residents who are registered with the library. The books are available in both print and digital formats. The library is committed to providing a wide range of resources to its community.

MPC wrestling with cell tower regulations

Byline: The Metropolitan Planning Commission (MPC) is currently wrestling with regulations regarding cell tower placement. The commission is reviewing various proposals and is expected to make a decision in the near future. The regulations are designed to ensure that cell tower placement is consistent with local zoning and land use plans.

Byline: The Metropolitan Planning Commission (MPC) is currently wrestling with regulations regarding cell tower placement. The commission is reviewing various proposals and is expected to make a decision in the near future. The regulations are designed to ensure that cell tower placement is consistent with local zoning and land use plans.

Byline: The Metropolitan Planning Commission (MPC) is currently wrestling with regulations regarding cell tower placement. The commission is reviewing various proposals and is expected to make a decision in the near future. The regulations are designed to ensure that cell tower placement is consistent with local zoning and land use plans.

Two men are shown looking at a document together, possibly related to the cell tower regulations mentioned in the article.

Get your early school year...

...with a new school year...

...with a new school year...

University of Tennessee

...with a new school year...

...with a new school year...

$3,999

...with a new school year...

...with a new school year...