Who would have predicted a year ago that the new Knoxville City Council would see four women, two being minorities, elected? Tuesday's General Election set a record in the total number of people casting ballots during an off-year election.

Currently the only woman on the council is Brenda Palmer and the only African-American is Daniel Brown, who served as mayor briefly between Bill Haslam's election as governor and Madeline Roger's election as mayor.

Counting those who voted Tuesday and in absentee and early votes, 11,728 people voted in a race the Election Commission was hoping to get at least 20,000 ballots cast. Tuesday's election permitted registered Knoxville voters in all districts to choose council members from two districts.

While some thought that Amelia Parker's write-in campaign might upset the momentum being built by Lauren Roper, it did not
