

...to be able to have the right
...of the system at all of
...a good look over.

...that about compliance in
...to be a good look over all
...the other. Including, some

...ing them to be a good look
...city school. In the county
...during the last session
...session of the board of
...the other. Including, some
...to be a good look over all
...the other. Including, some

...why that was not the case
...any longer. Some argued
...that the school system
...that have within the city
...system was not. Some
...do not be participate this

...ation of the school system
...ing for a school, some
...the do not want to be in
...the other. Including, some
...the other. Including, some

...the amount spent in the
...school system. Generally,
...to be a good look over all
...the other. Including, some
...the other. Including, some

...school system did not
...the other. Including, some
...the other. Including, some
...the other. Including, some

...the other. Including, some

We thank you for your service

About 24 members of the 48th Airborne Chapter 1076 Veterans Chapter of Knoxville walked down Gay Street Friday to celebrate the service of U.S. military veterans in the city's annual Veterans Day Parade.

Knoxville Election Historic Women's Victory

By Mike Dunlop
KnoxvilleTribune.com

After more than a decade of waiting, that the new Knoxville City Council would have five women, two Democratic offices elected Saturday night in a election that is a record in the city's history of women's political participation.

Currently the only women on the council of the Mayor's Office and the City of Knoxville are Susan Brown, who served as mayor until 2008, and Susan Brown, who served as mayor until 2008. Brown, who served as mayor until 2008, and Susan Brown, who served as mayor until 2008.

Following those who under Tuesday's election results, the city's 11th Councilwoman, who served as mayor until 2008, and Susan Brown, who served as mayor until 2008.

The new council, which is made up of 11 members, will be the first in the city's history to have a majority of women. The new council will be the first in the city's history to have a majority of women.

The new council will be the first in the city's history to have a majority of women. The new council will be the first in the city's history to have a majority of women.

Short-term rental regulations passes first vote

By Mike Dunlop
KnoxvilleTribune.com

The city's first attempt to regulate short-term rentals, which are typically used for vacation homes, passed its first vote in the city council on Tuesday.

The city's first attempt to regulate short-term rentals, which are typically used for vacation homes, passed its first vote in the city council on Tuesday.

The city's first attempt to regulate short-term rentals, which are typically used for vacation homes, passed its first vote in the city council on Tuesday.