

Students from the New River Gorge National Park and Preserve, along with local residents, gathered for a ceremony to celebrate the park's 50th anniversary.

Knoxville 1st Tennessee city certified as wildlife habitat

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The city of Knoxville has been certified as a wildlife habitat by the National Wildlife Federation. The certification is the first of its kind in the state of Tennessee.

The certification is a recognition of the city's commitment to protecting and enhancing its natural resources. It is a testament to the city's efforts to create a sustainable and healthy environment for its residents.

The certification is a result of the city's participation in the National Wildlife Federation's Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program. The program provides grants to cities and towns to help them develop and implement wildlife habitat management plans.

The city of Knoxville has been working on this project for several years. It has been a collaborative effort between the city and the National Wildlife Federation. The city has been successful in creating a wildlife habitat that is both beautiful and functional.

The certification is a significant achievement for the city of Knoxville. It is a testament to the city's commitment to protecting and enhancing its natural resources. It is a testament to the city's efforts to create a sustainable and healthy environment for its residents.

The certification is a significant achievement for the city of Knoxville. It is a testament to the city's commitment to protecting and enhancing its natural resources. It is a testament to the city's efforts to create a sustainable and healthy environment for its residents.