

new subdivision regulations

By Peter Gaudin

Regulations that were ten years in the making were documented last 20 when a handful of interested persons gathered at the city's public works service center to hear Knoxville Mayor County Administrator Thomas Gaudin discuss recently adopted subdivision regulations.

The regulations, which were adopted by the city last 22, 2007 will become effective Feb. 1 of this year. Gaudin said the regulations had been in the regulations off and on for ten years. He added that the nation on subdivision delayed the process a year.

Some of the changes consisted of clarification in zoning, and some changes brought to be consistent with both city and county

Lonsdale Principal Wendy Howard (right) presents Franklin Hudson with a check for $1,000 for the Franklin Hudson Fund. The money was raised by Lonsdale students for Junior Lonsdale.

Lonsdale honors fallen hero

10th, rezoning, Knitting Mill on City agenda

By Mike Gaudin
mikegaudin@knoxnews.com

Knoxville City Council may receive a piece of recent land from Knitting Mill on City agenda in order to become part of the proposed Franklin Hudson Fund. The city council is expected to vote on the rezoning.

The rezoning is to change the zoning to allow the city council's meeting room in Second Reading.

After an second and third reading to the meeting room of the city council for changes along the first Thomas River north of Lonsdale. The city council is expected to vote on the rezoning before the council.