regulations

Regulations that were

By Pete Gawda

ten years in the making were discussed on Jan. 23 when a roomful of interested persons gathered at the city's public works service center to hear Knox-ville-Knox County Metropolitan Planning Commission (MPC) staff member Thomas Brechko discuss recently adopted subdivision regulations. The regulations, which were adopted by the MPC were adopted by the MPC Oct. 12, 2017 will become effective Feb. 1 of this year. Brechko said his organization had worked on the regulations off and on for ten years. He added that the section on sidewalks delayed the process a year.

Some of the changes consisted of clarification in wording and some changes sought to be consistent Dobson Fund. The money was raised by Lonsdale students to honor Zaevion.

Lonsdale honors

rezoning, Knitting Mill on City agenda By Mike Steely steelymähnoftous.com

eelym@knoxfocus.com Knoxville City Council may rezone a piece of vacant land from residential to Public Parks and Refuges in order to become part of the proposed Emerald Youth complex in Lonsdale.

The resolution to change the zoning is before the city council's Tuesday meeting on Second Reading. Also on second and

Also on second and final reading is the rezoning request of Gary Koontz for changes along Central Avenue Pike north of Callahan Drive from residential to C-3 Commercial. Other