

Early voting as heavy as expected

By Mike Cook
Staff Writer

Early voting was heavy for voters in the early days of the election. The state's early voting period was expected to be a record, with more than 1 million voters expected to vote early. The state's early voting period was expected to be a record, with more than 1 million voters expected to vote early. The state's early voting period was expected to be a record, with more than 1 million voters expected to vote early.

By Mike Cook

Thomas is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives.

Thomas is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives.

Thomas is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives. He is a close family friend of the candidate for the House of Representatives.