

House Panel
Rejects
Agreement
Supporting Budget

The House panel on Tuesday rejected a bill that would have authorized the president to use military force to protect the United States against terrorism. The panel's decision was a surprise, as the bill had been widely expected to pass. The panel's decision was a surprise, as the bill had been widely expected to pass.