St. Louis is a city with a rich history, and it's important to keep it alive. One way to do this is by promoting local businesses and artists. This is what the Amplified busking project is all about. It's a way to give local artists a chance to perform in a public space, and it's a way to support local businesses. The project is a partnership between the City of St. Louis and the Amplified Foundation.

The Amplified Foundation is a nonprofit organization that supports local artists and businesses. It was founded in 2008 and has since then supported many local artists and businesses. The foundation's mission is to "amplify" the voices of local artists and businesses, and to create a more vibrant and diverse city. The Amplified busking project is one of the ways that the foundation is achieving its mission.
