homeless may be funded

By Mike Steely steelym@knoxfocus.com

The Knoxille City Council is being alsed by the Community Development Department to authorize $135,955 for Voluntier Ministry Center to hire two community outleach workers. The idea is to have these Ministry Center employees to work with "ursheltered persons exprencing homelessness" primarily around the intersoction of Stoodews and Mai-

The spot on Broadway has long been a gathering place for homeless, just across the street from the Volunteer Ministry Center, and some of the homeless who congregate there do not seek shelter there or at other homeless shelters.

nolia Avenue

Volunteer Track Classic this spring. Story received the Warrior Award in her senior year at CAK and signed with Stanford University. Please see Part 3 of The Knoxville Focus' feature recognizing local high schools' Student-Athletes of the Year in Sports & Recreation, Section C.