

Local authors and their family members gathered for a signing reception at the local library. The authors are standing behind the table, and the family members are standing in front of them. The table is covered with a white cloth and has several small potted plants and a laptop on it. The background shows bookshelves and a red balloon.

Local writers promote works at signing reception