

have asked Mr. Harvey, publisher of the Focus, for a travel budget, but he has yet to get back with me.

This morning, Becky asked me about plans for the day ahead with Rita's sister, Cleo, my daughter and son-in-law, Matt. I told her anything is fine because I don't rush to be somewhere any longer. For years for Cash or Cathy I am blessed to know I'm where I am supposed to be. Through all my travels I have never found any place I wanted to live except in my hometown of Knoxville, Tennessee. The Psalmist wrote of this same perspective of time and place when he said, "This is the day the Lord and Knoxville have similar weather, despite different latitudes. This is because the Japan Current warms the coastal areas of the Pacific Northwest. Portland is much larger than Knoxville, but since it is made up of numerous smaller neighborhoods and communities it doesn't feel like a big city anyway. Major immigration issue and the ailing economy. Obviously, many Americans see the world differently than me. Several Congressional Senators were defeated as a result of the Kavanaugh debacle, but the economy was not a big issue, perhaps because half of Americans pay no federal taxed power in the Congress because we have a divided nation.

As I looked out the window this morning after the election, I didn't see anything different, not the same as I drove to work the morning after Obama was elected in 2008. The Founders constructed our government with a balance power and party, are the driving forces behind their decisions and those of citizens and believers, we'll be OK, and we will make America Great Again.

Hobo's Tips for Holiday Success

It seems Halloween kicks off the beginning of a season of too much food, too much drink, too much s-p-e-n-d-i-n-g, and way too much of season but also a unique viewpoint from the eyes of a pet.

For most of us, the holiday season brings families and friends together with lots of cheer and good things. But, the holidays also fill our homes with stress, excitement, sights, family, and public places, then it's probably not a good idea to include Fido at the company Christmas party. Keep your dog's routines as regular as possible. Strange visitors, overnight guests, loud music, laughter, cheer, food, drinks, and a

- Gifts: You can get your bottom dollar that Hobo the Wonder Dog and his pack have stockings hanging on the mantle in hopes of squeaky toys and treats filled with Christmas cheer. Remember, it is not about the gifts but more about the time same schedule will make for a happier holiday season by all. We might be able to learn something from Hobo the Wonder Dog this holiday season, Fidoing will take the place of time spent playing fetch or a hose over a rail or through the
