

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

Commission may rename Norwood Library to honor Lynn Redmon

By Mike Moody
Staff Writer

The Knox County Commission meets in a special session to vote on a resolution to rename the Norwood Library in honor of Lynn Redmon, a local woman who died in a car accident in 1999. Redmon was a local woman who died in a car accident in 1999. Redmon was a local woman who died in a car accident in 1999.

and a national award for her work.

Commissioner Bill Hartsell announced the resolution to rename the library in honor of Lynn Redmon. Hartsell said the library was a place where Redmon spent a lot of time, and he wanted to honor her by renaming it.

...Continued on page 6

Gov. Lee makes good on campaign promise, reaches out to Knox supporters

By Kenney

In an effort to make good on a campaign promise, Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee gave the State Capitol grounds a tour.

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

Morning Pointe celebrates grand opening of new Knoxville facility

By Kenney

The new facility was opened by...

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)

...the school administration to close the doors of the 10th, leaving the school without all "social" training recently not used as provided for the future. (Herald)