

“I can’t wait to get my head down there to play – it’s going to be an amazing night!”

By Lisa Hollander

Exquisite native and county son Tim Hurley and his family performed at the Grand Opening of the Shaw Theater named the Best Gutterburg bar, restaurant and music venue Wednesday night.

Shaw said, “Tim is one of my all-time favorite artists and it happens to be from this area.” Hurley and family went on to perform three songs during the middle of Shaws set.

During the press conference, earlier in the day, Shalters said he had started Gutterburg during New Year’s and shared three shots, the and his girlfriend, Casey Shalters, fell in love with the area. Shalters also told the crowd that the Best Gutterburg was the favorite of the three venues he Presented left to right are Tim Hurley, his brother-in-law Tim Shaw, Mike Shalters, sister Shalters Shaw, and brother Jimmy Shalters. Shalters called Shalters one of his “all-time favorite artists” and recalled growing up listening

gas leaks trigger debate at BOE meeting

By Amy Rose Feltbush

The presence of three County Commissioners or Superintendents and three Executive Board Group (EB) members endeavoring to fulfill their citizenship badge requirements were recognized to commence the mid-month regular session Board of Education meeting. An announcement featured the several board members while attending the National School Board Association Annual Conference in Philadelphia from March 30 to April 2, 2018. Images of meeting with other school board members on a national level regarding educational matters.

Special to the meeting was highlighting three teachers who recognized as teachers of the year. As they approached three County Superintendent Bob Thomas to receive their awards in the Shaw-Hessman Room of the City-County Building, three in attendance approached quickly. The recipients were Brooklyn-McCloud Elementary School teacher Crystal Cramer, Karna Middle School teacher Janet Smith, and Powell High School teacher Alice Carter.

One week prior to the regular session meeting on March 13 board members congregated to review board policies at a work session. A motion carried for every school board policy with no discussion. They voted to approve the second