

GRAND GOALS

presented by Mayor Rogero

A smiling Heather Rogers, vice mayor, says the budget presentation is a big step in the process of the city's new vision. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

By Mike Hough
mike.hough@timesonline.com

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

presented to the city with the goal of addressing the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

the presentation of the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

PARC details complaints, hears from the public

By Mike Hough
mike.hough@timesonline.com

The public meeting of the Planning and Design Committee took place at the city's main building on a Tuesday night. The meeting was held at the city's main building on a Tuesday night. The meeting was held at the city's main building on a Tuesday night.

The committee, appointed by Mayor Rogero, is responsible for the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

The city is in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public. She says the city is now in a position to address the city's future and to present a vision of the city to the public.

Continued on page 2

County Budget Presentations, Public Meetings Planned

By Mike Hough
mike.hough@timesonline.com