Please be advised that the persons listed above own land property within the city limits of Knoxville. For various reasons, they oppose the current Roads Knoxville Initiative. They consulted with me about their situation and the impact that Roads Knoxville would have on them. At least one expressed concern, inter alia, over the potential use of group houses in traditionally residential residential areas with the exception of the Sequoyah Hills area. Some expressed concern over changes to the zoning of their business entity, which would impact the future sale value of their land.

Regarding the individuals who are concerned about their business property, they are currently zoned C-6, and under Roads Knoxville would be rezoned by (AII). The consequence of this rezoning is that their current, permitted use would become a non-conforming use. These individuals have sought to communicate their concerns to the city, mostly to no avail. Those who have had some communication have been promised a grandfathering for their current use. But, the value of their real property in the market thereafter will be affected, because the dimensions the properties are conducive to the currently permitted use and will have diminished value to a potential future buyer, unless the potential buyer can negotiate with the current user. The city has given no assurances to these individuals that the grandfathering of their
