

Tim Irwin hosts auction and cook-off fundraiser

By Ram Lay

It was a day for chili and fun. But it was also a day to raise money to help the foster children of the Knoxville area.

Knox County Juvenile Court Judge Tim Irwin hosted the 2019 Juvenile Court Assistance Board (JACB) Auction and Chili Cook-off Friday at the Knox County Juvenile Courts Building.

Irwin started the fundraiser, which included a silent auction, a live auction and a chili cook-off, 14 years ago.

The fundraiser is designed to help underprivileged youth, foster children and foster families.

"We do this for those who Angel Tree doesn't help because of their age," said Irwin, a former Central School, Tennessee Volunteer and National Football League player who once taught social studies at Northwest Middle School. "This is a special day and a fun day going to be a great day." A public meeting is planned now for Thursday at 5:30 in the Small Assembly Room of the City-County Building where Jim Clayton and Barbara Mary Architects

"The Knoxville Science Museum" the gift from the Clayton Foundation also includes a $50 million endowment to support the proposed center's operations.

LMU to get the former St. Mary's tower building

By Mike Steady
Senior Writer
mike.steady@knoxnews.com

One of the final steps toward Knoxville taking possession of the former Brenova Hospital, formerly known as St. Mary's, takes place Tuesday evening. City Council will be

Community Development Corporation for redevelopment and then transfer to LMU. The university plans to use the building for a future nursing school, business school and a criminal justice school. With that completed the