Farragut residents unhappy with 5G

By News Staff

The Farragut Mayor and Board of Aldermen met on Thursday, February 13 with a brief agenda of business, community relations and three local news items. The bulk of the meeting concerned the Verizon application for 5G small cell antennas that would be placed in residents' front yards. In fact, the town administrator's report and the town attorney's report formed the focus of what the Town of Farragut was doing regarding the Verizon application of January 10th to begin the 5G rollout in Farragut.

Town Administrator David Simons told the mayor and aldermen that state Representative Jason Tarmann contacted the mayor. Tarmann brought
