

Tommy Smith selected for District 1 council seat

By Mike Williams
 District 1 Councilmember Tommy Smith has been selected to represent the district in the upcoming general election. Smith, a member of the City Council since 2011, was chosen by voters in a special election held on December 15th. He will be running against incumbent Councilmember [Name] in the general election on May 5th. Smith has a record of successful leadership on the council, including the passage of the city's first anti-discrimination ordinance and the creation of the City of Knoxville's first public housing authority. He has also been instrumental in the city's efforts to improve public safety and economic development.

Will Knox County form its own planning commission?

By Mike Williams

Will Knox County form its own planning commission? This is a question that has been raised in recent months. The county has a long history of working with the city of Knoxville on planning issues, but there has been a growing desire for more local control. A planning commission would be responsible for reviewing and recommending land use changes to the county commission. It would also be responsible for developing and updating the county's comprehensive plan. The county commission has held several public hearings on the issue, and the community has expressed a strong interest in the topic. The county is currently in the process of studying the feasibility of forming a planning commission. It is expected that a decision will be made in the near future.
