

Steve Brown/Health Department photo showing people wearing paper face shields in a COVID-19 testing facility.

County seeking solutions to overwhelming testing response

By Mike Smith
 Contributing Writer

When the first COVID-19 test results came in, the health department was flooded with requests for testing. The health department was overwhelmed by the response, and the health department is now seeking solutions to manage the overwhelming response.

The health department is now seeking solutions to manage the overwhelming response. The health department is now seeking solutions to manage the overwhelming response.

A police car is used for COVID-19 testing at the health department's mobile testing site. The health department is now seeking solutions to manage the overwhelming response.

Study of recycle fire area approved by city council

By Mike Smith
 Contributing Writer

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

The city of San Jose has approved a study to determine the feasibility of a new recycling facility in the city. The study will be conducted by the city's Department of Public Works.

DM Miller Passes Away At 94

By Mike Smith
 Contributing Writer

DM Miller, a long-time resident of San Jose, passed away at the age of 94. He was a member of the San Jose Community Center.

DM Miller

DM Miller, a long-time resident of San Jose, passed away at the age of 94. He was a member of the San Jose Community Center.

DM Miller, a long-time resident of San Jose, passed away at the age of 94. He was a member of the San Jose Community Center.