After the state's newly audit committee reports this afternoon it will report on the impact of the shutdown of the state's economy.

The committee has reported on the state's economic condition since 2013 and under the old law, committee members had to report to the state's legislature. The new committee will report to the governor, although the law is not yet in effect.

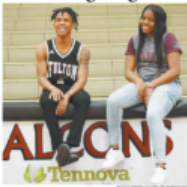

The committee will also report on the state's economic condition and the impact of the shutdown on the state's economy.
