

ments Use of Force Policy to make it consistent with the 8 Can't Wait campaign. The campaign outlines eight specific use-of-force policies to reduce police violence.

Mayor Kincannon said, "This review is just one step in my commitment to take a comprehensive look at public safety in Knoxville. This is not a one-way conversation. Our efforts must be intentional and include meaningful community input."

"KPD is a well-trained, professional and accredited police department that was already practicing the majority of the recommendations of the 8 Can't Wait campaign. There were, however, areas where improvements were needed in the Use of Force policy and in the Code of Conduct."

Police Chief Eve Thomas says the new policies have now been distributed to every officer and agrees this is another step in the right direc-

PHOTO COURTESY OF IJAMS NATURE CENTER

Ijams has a variety of programs and activities including dip-netting in ponds, hiking the trails and discovering natural treasures.

New Ijams Nature Center programs offer fun for all ages

Join Ijams Nature Center for safe summer fun! The nature center is offering new programs, from rock scrambling and creek walks for families, to bird watch-can still come together in ways that allow us to learn and enjoy the outdoors," Ijams Executive Director Amber Parker said.

"These programs are perfect exposure."

Space for all programs is limited to ensure physical distancing and Ijams is following safety and sanitization protocols.

Review Committee

By Mike Steely
Senior Writer
steelym@knoxfocus.com

Should future Knox County Commissions be expanded to eleven districts and the at-large positions be eliminated?

That was one of the questions about the future of Knox County government that the Charter Review Committee discussed Thursday afternoon. The members also asked if the two at-large commissioners should be added to future charter reviews.

Any decision by the review committee will go before voters, possibly on the August ballot.

Knox County Law Director Bud Armstrong said, under the current charter, at-large members are banned from serving but it may be possible for them to be named as citizen members by the other county commissioners.