

Eters vs. Knox County hearing set for July 16

By Mike Brady
Knox County
Correspondent

The 10th Circuit Court will hear the case of Eters vs. Knox County on July 16. The case involves a dispute over the care of a patient in a nursing home. The patient, a man named Eters, is currently in a nursing home. His family, the Eters family, is suing Knox County for allegedly failing to provide adequate care for their father. The family claims that the nursing home staff neglected their father and that the county failed to properly regulate the nursing home.

The case is being heard by Judge John E. Evers. The family is seeking damages for the care of their father. They also want the county to be held responsible for the care of their father. The county is denying the allegations and is arguing that it provided adequate care for the patient. The case is expected to be a lengthy trial.

The family is represented by attorney John E. Evers. The county is represented by attorney John E. Evers. The case is expected to be a lengthy trial.

Family Fights Frustration: caring for a loved one from afar during pandemic

By Mike Brady
Knox County
Correspondent

There is a lot of frustration and anger over the lack of information and support that the family has received while caring for a loved one in a hospital during the pandemic. The family is fighting for better care and support for their loved one.

The family is frustrated with the lack of information and support that they have received from the hospital. They want to know more about the care that their loved one is receiving and they want to be able to visit their loved one more often. The family is also frustrated with the lack of support that they have received from the hospital staff.

The family is also frustrated with the lack of information and support that they have received from the hospital. They want to know more about the care that their loved one is receiving and they want to be able to visit their loved one more often. The family is also frustrated with the lack of support that they have received from the hospital staff.

The family is also frustrated with the lack of information and support that they have received from the hospital. They want to know more about the care that their loved one is receiving and they want to be able to visit their loved one more often. The family is also frustrated with the lack of support that they have received from the hospital staff.

Continued on page 2

The family is also frustrated with the lack of information and support that they have received from the hospital. They want to know more about the care that their loved one is receiving and they want to be able to visit their loved one more often. The family is also frustrated with the lack of support that they have received from the hospital staff.