

Community Task Force shares findings with school board

By Sam Lay

The Community Task Force on Reciprocity presented their findings to the Knox County Board of Education Wednesday.

Task force leader Dr. Jerry Asker spoke to the board after a two-day public hearing between June 24 and June 29.

Safety is a primary concern according to Asker, President of the Alliance for Better Housing.

"There are no risk-free options here. My hope is that they will take strong evidence and they'll make the best decision to balance risk in any way that they can," Asker said. "The entire thing is an exercise in balancing risk."

Bill Hagerty stumps in Union County

Sen. Charles Susano and his 25 employees in a financial bind. His office was mostly untouched by county layoffs. Operating the office on greatly reduced funds led Susano to ask the county for a loan. His annual payroll for himself and his employees is about $1.6 million, mostly generated by filing fees. He said all his employees are essential in running the office.

After meeting with Mayor Glenn Jacobs and Financial Director Chris Caldwell they decided to request a loan of $1.6 million, which Susano said he would use as needed.

"We're not short $1.6 million but don't want to go back and ask for more if more is needed," he said, adding, "We're pretty thrifty." Susano said the amount was requested because no one knows how long COVID-19 will continue. He also said the loan will be paid back.

On the Knox County Commission Agenda the resolution authorizes "an Interfund Loan through the use of a Tax Anticipation Note."
