

Photo by David Bush

The winners of Thursday night's election celebrate their respective victories. They gathered at the Republican watch party at the Crowne Plaza in Henderson, Nevada.

Local GOP candidates celebrate victories at Crowne Plaza

By David Bush

David Bush makes it no secret that he is ready to get to work for the citizens of Iron County and the Iron County Board of Commissioners when he is sworn in as Iron Director.

"I am the people's lawyer and I can't wait to go to work for the people of Iron County," said Bush, who defeated independent candidate Jackson Farmer to replace the term-limited Bud Armstrong as Iron County Law Director, Thursday night. "I'm looking forward to carrying on the fine work that Bud has done for the last eight years."

"I'm looking forward to carrying on that work with the professionalism that Bud did."

Bush worked for Armstrong in the law firm and whether to leave the law director position was the county's major issue other than having that person elected by the citizens of Iron County.

"There is nothing more sacred than the right to vote," Bush said. "But there are people out there that want to take that right away from you, and you may see that on the ballot and also may see it on the ballot in November."

Bush also expressed gratitude to his family for their support during the campaign and the election cycle.

"When you run for office, your whole family runs with you. This past, during the pandemic, it was a little tougher because you have to go out and campaign," Bush said.

you'll run through the other way, many ways it will be even better than before."

Thanks to the generous support of nearly 60 donors and financial sponsors, the major office will distribute 1,000 school supply bags. Each family will also receive a fun information bag of goodies. All items are available on a first-come, first-served basis while supplies last.

Cars will enter Crowne Plaza via Mill Meadows Parkway and follow a one-way traffic flow to exit on Highway 95. A walk-up option will be available at the 4th freeway located at the corner of Ocean Dr. and Highway 95, directly across from Park City.

The event gates will open at 2 p.m. to allow cars to assemble, but no school supply bags will be distributed until 3 p.m.

Attendees are asked to remain in their vehicles to allow for safe physical distancing.

Emerald Youth Foundation to