

Jim Haslam authors memoir on leadership lessons, learning and luck

The former governor of Tennessee has written a memoir titled "The Journey: A Memoir of Leadership, Learning and Luck." The book, published by HarperCollins, details his experiences in politics and business, offering insights into his leadership style and the challenges he has faced. The memoir is a collection of personal reflections and stories that provide a unique perspective on the author's life and career.

Haslam's memoir is a candid and honest look at his life, from his early days in politics to his time as governor and his subsequent work in the private sector. He shares his thoughts on leadership, the importance of learning from failure, and the role of luck in achieving success. The book is a must-read for anyone interested in leadership and the challenges of public service.

The memoir is a collection of personal reflections and stories that provide a unique perspective on the author's life and career. It is a candid and honest look at his life, from his early days in politics to his time as governor and his subsequent work in the private sector. The book is a must-read for anyone interested in leadership and the challenges of public service.

Haslam's memoir is a candid and honest look at his life, from his early days in politics to his time as governor and his subsequent work in the private sector. The book is a must-read for anyone interested in leadership and the challenges of public service.

Eddie Mazois is confirmed by state Republican Party

Eddie Mazois has been confirmed by the state Republican Party as the chair of the Tennessee Education Policy Commission. Mazois, a former state legislator and education leader, will lead the commission in its efforts to improve the state's education system. The confirmation marks a significant step in the party's commitment to educational reform in Tennessee.

Mazois's appointment as chair of the Tennessee Education Policy Commission is a testament to his expertise in education and his leadership skills. He will be working closely with other stakeholders to address the challenges facing the state's schools and to develop effective policies that will ensure a bright future for all Tennessee students.

COUNTY OFFICIALS TAKE OATH

County officials, including Eddie Mazois, take an oath of office during a ceremony. Mazois is seen in the center, with his hand raised, as he is sworn in as the new chair of the Tennessee Education Policy Commission.

Joy and Schoonmaker named chair and vice chair of Knox Commission

John Joy and John Schoonmaker have been named the chair and vice chair of the Knox County Commission. Joy, a long-time resident and community leader, will lead the commission in its efforts to address the needs of the county and to improve the quality of life for its residents. Schoonmaker, a former county official, will assist Joy in his duties and provide valuable input into the commission's work.

The Knox County Commission is a key governing body for the county, responsible for making decisions on a wide range of issues, from budgeting to public safety. Joy and Schoonmaker's appointment as chair and vice chair is a reflection of their leadership abilities and their commitment to the community.

John Joy and John Schoonmaker have been named the chair and vice chair of the Knox County Commission. Joy, a long-time resident and community leader, will lead the commission in its efforts to address the needs of the county and to improve the quality of life for its residents. Schoonmaker, a former county official, will assist Joy in his duties and provide valuable input into the commission's work.

The Knox County Commission is a key governing body for the county, responsible for making decisions on a wide range of issues, from budgeting to public safety. Joy and Schoonmaker's appointment as chair and vice chair is a reflection of their leadership abilities and their commitment to the community.

Horn re-appointed as chair of KCS Board of Education

John Horn has been re-appointed as the chair of the Knox County Schools Board of Education. Horn, a dedicated educator and community member, will continue to lead the board in its efforts to ensure the highest quality of education for all students in Knox County. His re-appointment is a testament to his leadership and his commitment to the district's success.

John Horn's re-appointment as chair of the Knox County Schools Board of Education is a significant milestone in his career. He will continue to work closely with the board and the district's staff to address the challenges of the 21st-century classroom and to ensure that every student has the opportunity to succeed.

Assess your home's energy efficiency. Call us today for a free energy audit.

Call us today for a free energy audit.  CALL US TODAY