

U.S. Senate candidate Bill Hagerty and State House District 13 candidate Elaine Davis stand for a picture for The Focus at the annual Lincoln Day dinner last Monday evening.

"If the Democrats win, they will attack the (Supreme) Court with judges. They wanted to go from nine to 14 judges and they just want to keep everything looking."

He also promised to help President Donald Trump rewrite the health events.

Continued on page 2

Dr. James Shanley said fellow board members that the growing number of hospital admissions in the region concerning. He said the current increase is the sign of a coming surge of COVID-19 cases. Health Department Director Dr. Martha Buchanan reported the number of new cases is up and hospital capacity is in the "yellow" level in an upward trend.

"I was surprised how the situation changed since we met two weeks ago. We could walk into a big surprise, a data and case county shift. We're entering a new phase," Shanley said.

If the increase continued Shanley said, "We may not be able to supply all the regular services. If you need medical care come to the hospital. We're watching the growth closely."

Two Jacobs officials on paid leave in theft investigation

By Mike Stealy
Senior Writer
mstealy@timesfree.com

Franklin County Mayor Glenn Jacobs confirmed last week that two top employees have been placed on paid leave during an investigation into their activities. Chief of Staff Bryan War and Parks and Recreation Senior Director Paul White are the subjects of an inquiry being conducted by auditors Hugh CPA in an unsubstantiated. Finance Director Chris Caldwell reportedly is contacting the state comptroller to help in the investigation.

Jacobs announced both men being placed on paid "administrative leave" last Tuesday after he said he was informed of potential wrongdoing. War, a long time associate of White when they were both executives with the Tennessee State Bank, replied, "I appreciate the mayor

Employees within the county major's office have been instructed not to talk about the possible charges until the investigation is completed. Jacobs is promising a full release of details and possible charges.

On Thursday War released the following statement:

"Towards the end of May, my wife broke her foot and I reached out to Parks & Rec to see if they had a cart I could borrow that summer until her foot healed and then returned it to Parks & Rec. This was not only a mistake on my part, but a lapse in judgment. It was not wise for me to borrow something that belongs to the citizens of Franklin County and for that, I'm deeply sorry."

Rumors about the misuse of county credit cards and the former Hospitality Fund were dismissed by off-the-record comments although a charge