PAGE A2 The Knoxville FOCUS August 15, 2022 Democrats Jan. 6th Committee Is A Kangaroo Court

From a distance

duncanj@knoxfocus.com

During my 30 years in the U.S. House, and probably throughout the entire history of the U.S. Congress, political parties have been allowed to choose their members of the various committees.

The number of members a party has on each committee is roughly the same as the percentage that party has in the whole House or Senate.

The committee investigating the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2022, is the first committee I know of in which the Speaker of the House has refused to seat the members chosen by the minority party.

Nancy Pelosi obviously did not want anyone on that committee who would have asked her uncomfortable questions about what she did or did not do on that day.

She obviously did not want anyone on that committee who would have shown that what happened at the Capitol that day was not nearly as horrendous as the Democrats, for very partisan political purposes, need it to be.

Speaker Pelosi cherrypicked the two Republicans and possibly the only two who hated Trump with a passion not equaled even by most Trump critics.

Adam Kinzinger was censured by Republicans for voting to impeach Trump.

As for Liz Cheney, colum- Democrats cross over and nist Roger Simon summed it up best: "Donald Trump said mean things about her father, blaming him for the Iraq War... but Liz Cheney reacted to Trump with a level of hate out of all proportion to the situation."

He added: "She (Cheney) made an alliance with people whose views she considered anathema for all of her previous life, just to get Trump. It was hate then to the nth degree."

Ms. Cheney has received over $10 million from Democrats and Trump haters all over the country for her primary election on August 16.

But the last poll taken by the Casper, WY daily newspaper showed her 22 points behind the woman who Trump has endorsed to replace her. Thus, she will be out of Congress at the end of this year unless vote in the Republican Primary, which is allowed in Wyoming as it is in Tennessee.

Columnist Simon wrote of the Jan. 6th Committee Democrats: "Themselves also permeated with the most obvious hate - have failed miserably at their endeavor and now have abruptly postponed their third 'show trial' telecast. The previous telecasts were a rating disaster, and in some cases, they got caught lying."

The Jan. 6th Committee is the closest we have ever come to a biased, one-sided Kangaroo Court in the U.S. Congress.

Wikipedia defines a Kangaroo Court as "a court that ignores recognized standards of law or justice, carries little or no official standing (and) may ignore due process and come to a predetermined conclusion."

Over 800 people have been arrested for what they did at the Capitol on Jan. 6th, and many of them should be punished. But this is a small percentage of the 25,000 to 30,000 who attended the Trump speech that day.

Some of those who were arrested were denied bail, held in solitary confinement, and treated worse than we normally treat some of the worst criminals.

My friend Earl Sharp sent me a video showing that many of those who went into the Capitol that day walked through doors held open by Capitol police and did nothing other than just peacefully walk through taking a tour like 7 or 8 million do each year.

The only person killed that day was a woman Air Force veteran who was shot in the back by a trigger-happy Capitol policeman as she was attempting to climb through a window and was absolutely no danger to him at all.

Much worse was done by those who rioted, burned buildings, destroyed businesses, and harmed many people in the more than 500 demonstrations led by Black Lives Matter and Antifa, and almost nothing has been done to them.

The Democrats have been desperate to get peoples' minds off of inflation, high gas prices, crime, problems at the Southern border, and the recession so they have greatly exaggerated the Jan. 6th events at the Capitol.

They seem to be fooling no one except for hardcore, partisan Trump haters.

Complaint rejected by ethics committee

By Mike Steely Senior Writer steelym@knoxfocus.com

The Knox County Ethics Committee met briefly Wednesday morning to review a complaint against a notary. A citizen complained to the district attorney general and the ethics committee but the ethics group found it has no power to review the case.

Ethics Chairman Michael Covington, who pushed for a review in a previous meeting, told the committee that a letter from the Knox County Law Director convinced him there is no power allotted to the committee to hear the complaint.

"There's nothing out on the books to deal with that," Covington told the other members. "I've reviewed it and have a better understanding," he said.

The original complaint, from Anthony A. Lewis, charges a relative with using a notary to approve a transfer of power of attorney from a dying relative to his wife, the withdrawal of funds from the man's account, and a conspiracy between the notary, also a relative, and the wife.

Law Director David Buuck reported, in a multiple-page document, to the ethics committee that a notary, although applications are approved by the Knox County Commission, actually falls under the authority of the state governor. Buuck also noted that since no Knox County employee is named in the complaint there is no authority to hear the case. Buuck also said that a current court case involves the same issue.

"It is proper to suspend the proceedings before the committee," Buuck said.

"We should allow it to be suspended," Covington said and then adjourned the meeting. The ethics committee's next regular meeting is on November 9.

George Washington and the Cancel Culture

The cancel culture has claimed another victim in George Washington University. It has been known as "the Colonials" and the name will continue until a new one is announced. The university said,

"For supporters, the term refers to those who lived in the American colonies, especially those who fought for independence and democracy. For opponents, Colonials means colonizers who stole land and resources from indigenous groups, killed or exiled Native peoples and introduced slavery into the colonies." Obviously, the opponents won. However, for us black southerners, "Colonial" refers to what we called "light" bread which later we learned was properly called "white" bread. We never could figure out why wheat bread wasn't called "dark" bread.

He authored the Declaration of Independence (all men are created equal) and called slavery a moral depravity. Jefferson said that slavery was the greatest threat to the survival of the American republic and was contrary to the laws of nature. Yet he owned over 600 slaves and did not free them upon his death. Jefferson's wealth and place in society were dependent upon his ownership of human beings and he was loath to give them up. Still, his words inspire us despite his being deeply flawed.

His old nemesis, George III remarked "If George Washington goes back to his farm, he will be the greatest character of his age." Indeed, he gave up the presidency and went back to his farm. Washington was prosperous owning over 8,000 acres and 300 slaves. He could have sided with the Loyalists and not have rocked the boat - I am a direct descendent of one of his soldiers who was killed by loyalists. Yet he accepted being a traitor to the crown to fight for independence. What would have happened to him if he had lost? He would have been fortunate to have died in battle. He certainly would not have wanted to be captured alive. He would have been taken to London and after being tortured, George III would have had him drawn and quartered. That is where each limb is tied to a horse and each horse was simultaneously whipped and run in each direction. I leave the rest to your imagination. Washington knew this and yet to potentially sacrifice everything to establish a new nation built on individual liberty and freedom makes him one whose name should be honored by us all, regardless of color.

Republicans Win in Spite of Herrera

Daniel Herrera, who all but disappeared during the recent general election, has now taken a victory tour when appearing before the Karns Republican Club and the West Knox Republican Club. Herrera's speeches can easily be summarized as "I did that!" Daniel Herrera is taking credit for the sweeping victory of the entire ticket. Only Will Edwards, a candidate for the school board, lost and then only by seven votes. The rest of the GOP ticket sailed to victory in the general election. Local Democrats certainly had advantages they haven't enjoyed before inasmuch as they had full-time field representatives working tirelessly throughout the general election, as well as plenty of money. The Democrats funneled their money to promote their candidates in areas they targeted, such as the school board races in the 4th and 9th districts, race between Gina Oster and Stuart Hohl.

In the meantime, Daniel Herrera, as far as any Republican knows, squandered valuable resources that could have been used for outreach, registering new voters and get-outthe-vote efforts. Herrera paid a whopping $20,000 speaking fee to bring Charlie Kirk here for the Lincoln Day Dinner. Kirk is a twenty-something head of Turning Point USA who reputedly pays himself $300,000 annually. And just this summer, Herrera spent $5,000 for a table at the Tennessee Statesman's dinner so he and his cronies could be seen.

As Herrera tries to take credit for the GOP sweep in Knox County, the Republican base here knows our ticket won in spite of Daniel Herrera, not because of anything he did.

Voters Overwhelmingly Reject Robby

Robby Starbuck, the man-bun-wearing California carpetbagger who was ruled off the GOP primary ballot in the new 5th Congressional district, persisted in waging a write-in campaign for Congress. Just about anybody could have predicted it wasn't going anywhere. The Republican primary winner was Maury County Mayor Andy Ogles, who is a former member of the state legislature. Beth Harwell, the former Speakand the county commission er of the Tennessee House, won the Davidson County portion of the district and Ogles won everything else. Starbuck had loudly insisted throughout much of the campaign he was leading in the polls, a notion that was hotly disputed. Evidently, Starbuck still believed there was a possibility he could still win the nomination. The day before the election, Starbuck sent out an email urging folks to get out and vote. The California candidate told supporters, "If everyone on my email list and everyone in the district who follows me on social media shows up --- Then no one can beat us!" At best, Robby Starbuck's write-in campaign gave him about 4% of the vote.

Observers on social media noted during the last weeks of the campaign that Starbuck's house in Williamson County had been listed for sale. The listing was taken down after chatter on social media noted Starbuck appeared to be offering his home for sale.

Pace Loses

One of the little noted features of the recent primary election was the fact former GOP chair Randy Pace was on the ballot. Pace was seeking a seat on the Republican State Executive Committee. The referendum on Randy Pace's leadership was clear: he ran dead last in a field of three candidates.

Thank You, Herb Slatery & Congratulations to Jonathan Skrmetti

Jonathan Skrmetti will be Tennessee's new state attorney general come September 1. Incumbent Herbert Slatery chose not to seek another eight-year term. Slatery was the first Republican to serve as Tennessee Attorney General since Reconstruction. Tennessee is the only state in the nation where the attorney general is selected by the members of the Supreme Court. Six applicants were among the finalists considered to serve as Tennessee's attorney general by the high court, including Knoxvillian Culver Schmid.

Skrmetti served as chief deputy attorney general under Slatery from 2018 until 2021 when he left to become Governor Bill Lee's legal counsel. The past three Tennessee state attorney generals have all served as legal counsel to the governor prior to being selected. Jonathan Skrmetti was the youngest of the six applicants considered by the justices.

Herbert Slatery did a fine job as Tennessee's attorney general.

Shelby County Turns Blue

The political landscape in Shelby County has continued to change. The last GOP countywide officeholder just lost reelection.

District Attorney General and Elaine Davis for Ten-Amy Weirich lost to former nessee's 18th District in County Commissioner Steve Mulroy. The Shelby County Commission will difficult for Davis to put have a Black and female majority.

The great majority of judges in Shelby County were swept out of office, including Juvenile Judge Dan Michael, who was viewed by much of the voting public to be a Republican.

Democrats Take Advantage of Republican Division

Knox County Democrats have continued to forecast taking over local government due to the victory of Katherine Bike in the 4th District school board race. The 4th District is more purple than red and it wasn't so long ago it elected Finbarr Saunders as its county commissioner. Nor was it that long ago when Saunders was defeated for reelection four years later. Local Democrats were energized while local Republicans were divided by poor leadership that has spent more time tearing the party apart by trifling inside GOP primaries. The truth is the biggest advantage local Democrats had, aside from being energized, was the Knox County Republican leadership.

Perhaps the race most illustrative of the division inside the Knox County Republican Party was that between Janet Testerman the House of Representatives. It is going to be quite things back together again for the general election. The prime target for local Democrats in the coming November election in Knox County will surely be the 18th District.

Another factor aiding local Democrats was the very low voter turnout. The Republican vote was down some 39% from 2018 and while the Democrat vote was down, too, it was not as much as that of the Republicans. It remains to be seen as to what the voter turnout will be in the fall, but Davis has her work cut out for her in reuniting a party she helped to divide. That provides local Democrats with their biggest opportunity in the coming November general election for gain.

Putting the Shoe on the Other Foot

Eric Adams, mayor of New York City, had a hissy fit when Texas Governor Greg Abbott began busing illegal aliens to the Big Apple. Adams pretends Abbott is responsible when the real culprit is Joe Biden and his administration and its open borders policy. US border communities have been overrun, yet Democrats like Eric Adams have never raised their voices to complain... until it affected them.

August 15, 2022 PAGE A4 The Knoxville FOCUS Commission could change Board of Zoning Appeals powers

By Mike Steely enior Writer steelym@knoxfocus.com

The growing debate over the powers of the Board of Zoning Appeals is back on the agenda for the Knox County Commission Work Session today. The muchopposed change would remove development plan appeal decisions from the BZA and make development plans appealable only at Chancery Court.

Deputy Law Director Mike Moyers advised the commission last month that the BZA does not have the power, under state law, to hold such reviews.

by Mayor Glenn Jacobs and Commissioner Randy Smith.

A long public hearing prior to the July commission meeting heard numerous speakers speak against the change with only Mayor Jacobs and attorney Katie Overton speaking in favor. Both said the lack of housing, housing prices and unneeded oversight will be helped by removing development plans from the BZA authority.

Kevin Murphy, speaking on behalf of the Planning Alliance, said the change would permit a developer to opt out of a BZA review, forcing citizens to go to court to appeal. He cited the historic powers of the BZA and said that as most ance presented several citizens cannot afford a spokespersons against court case, this change Board of Zoning Appeals.

Lisa Starbuck of the Knox County Planning Alliance spoke at a recent Knox County Commission meeting on proposed BZA changes, saying that citizens need a voice and urging the commission to "stay with the people" and reject the changes.

The Rona

If you want to find some- subvariant of Omicron. evidence.

Chinese proverb

A man's rights rest in three boxes: the ballot box, the jury box, and the cartridge box.

Frederick Douglas

Well, despite being very careful, getting vaccinated, boosted, and having serologic evidence of a previous asymptomatic Covid infection, the Rona hit me two weeks ago. It felt like a cold coming on with aching all over and then low-grade fever, sore throat, headache and coughing, and then it got worse. In times past I would've considered it a bad summer cold, but we are in the Covid era, so I knew what I had before I tested positive.

Covid infections in America are now due to the BA 5 one guilty, you will not lack This strain is said to be highly infectious, but perhaps milder than previous Covid infections. The BA strain tends to stay in the nasal passages rather than infecting deep in the lungs. It is also reported that 60% of Americans have already had Covid infection as well as 75% of children. I suspect the number is much higher. And since I did a home test, I won't be part of the statistics. Years ago, I had influenza and it was worse than my recent Covid infection. A patient once told me he had just gotten over influenza. I asked him why he thought he had influenza. He said, "I felt like I had been beaten with a stick and was so sick I was afraid I would not die." That's influenza. My "Rona" was a Supposedly 85% of miserable experience, but it was not influenza.

mandates of Saint Fauci and the CDC. That's bad news for the Democrats who need a crisis to take American's minds off the disasters they created. We were once told we should shelter in place for two weeks to bend the curve of Covid hospitalizations. That was a lie. We were told Covid vaccination would prevent illness; that was a lie. We were also told social distancing and masks would protect us; they didn't.

So, to gin up fear and get us to surrender our freedoms, the Dems have moved on to Monkeypox. Interestingly, Monkeypox, like HIV, came from Africa and seems to have escaped to Europe from a Gay rave music festival on the Portuguese island of the Azores. This viral infection is rarely serious and almost always is seen in men who have sex with men. Nonetheless, Ole Joe's handlers have declared Monkeypox an emergency.

I refuse to accept the fear mongering that Monkeypox is an emergency. Our country is suffering from inflation, shortages, high gas prices, drugs, crime, homelessness, open borders, corruption in the FBI and Department of Justice The country is weary of and an abject failure of Covid and the politicized leadership in virtually all institutions. In other words, we are suffering from Democrat "Donkeypox" which is a life-threatening disease, rather than a gay bath-house skin rash.

> I hate writing about the country's disasters caused by Biden and the Democrats. But even more troublesome to my soul are my feelings toward "friends" who voted for the demented and incompetent Biden and still support destructive Democrat policies. Hatred of President Trump and his Tweets drove millions to lose their minds, reject economic prosperity, national security, border control and energy independence. Everyone makes mistakes, but to persist in your errors is delusional. It has become difficult for me to maintain a Christian attitude around people who refuse to admit their mistake. Speaking for God, the ancient prophet Micah in 6:8 described justice, mercy and humility. We are to "act justly, love mercy and walk humbly with God." However, mercy cannot be given until justice is first done.

Another Democrat debacle is the passage of The Inflation [Production] Act. The term doublespeak derives from George Orwell's dystopian book "1984" and means language used to "distort and obfuscate reality." The Ministry of Truth, where history is rewritten, and The Ministry of Love, where Big Brother imprisons and tortures citizens.

Democrats are now trying to redefine the economic term recession as they move to pass a $750 billion spending bill which will do nothing but fuel inflation and hire 87,000 new IRS agents to squeeze middle class Americans. You realize 75% of IRS audits are for people making less than $200,000 a year. Biden and the Democrats are lying to you. I am not an economist, but I know that if you print more money, it will drive down the value of the dollar producing more inflation. This is a special form of insanity during a recession.

dastardly decisions of Democrats, but the raid on President Trump's home in Florida, the "Raid heard round the world," is one of the more egregious. If the FBI can send 30 agents to an ex-president's home, then none of us is safe because the rule of law has been replaced by Big Brother. But wait ... Democrats are now attempting to remove the term raid and replace it with some doublespeak euphemism.

Most have heard of Examples in the book are the infamous King Ahab of ancient Israel and his wicked wife Jezebel who actually "ruled" Ahab. We now live in the time of a figurehead President similarly controlled by progressive socialists and propped up by his wife. I don't believe Karine Jean-Pierre's statement that the "Big Guy" was not aware of the raid on President Trump's home. Nor do I believe the FBI Director Christopher Wray or The Department of Justice Merrick Garland would have launched the raid without White House Chief of Staff Ron Klain's approval. Since manavelins intrigues and dishonesty has been the modus operandi of the Biden administration, I don't believe anything they say.

So where do we go from There are so many here? I offered my solution in last week's essay entitled "Starting Over." If you missed it go to knoxfocus. com and the archives. Voter turnout in the recent primary elections was disappointing. You should never pass up an opportunity to vote. If we are to save our country we must vote and toss the bums out. Of the three options suggested by Frederick Douglass, voting is the best.

By Mike Steely Sénior Writer steelym@knoxfocus.com

Who isn't a fan of Andy Griffith and the characters in his iconic television series? Griffith's boyhood home of Mount Airy, NC, has an annual "Mayberry Days" celebration and the 33rd gathering is coming September 19th through the 25th.

The little mountain town literally rolls out the red carpet for fans during those days and dozens of folks recreate characters from the popular family television show. Many actors from the show have passed but some original character actors often appear. This year there are tribute bands, artists, comedy routines, and a book talk with Don Knotts' daughter, Karen Knotts, is planned. "Tied up in Knotts" is a tribute to her father who played Barney Fife, Griffith's beloved deputy in the show. Continue on page 2

And there is also the Townsend Visitor Center, a free roadside attraction along Lamar Alexander Parkway. The center, which contains a neat gift shop and dozens of free pamphlets about regional attractions, has a gallery where local artists and craftspeople display and sell their handiworks.

Beverly Calloway is proud to display and sell her "Pebble Piddler" handcrafted cards and framed river pebbles. The Paris, TN, native is a Townsend area resident and one of many artisans who appear at the Townsend Visitor Center to share and sell their wares.

Our visit to Townsend reminded us of visiting Gatlinburg many years ago before the commercial boom in that area. From Townsend, you can continue on Alexander Parkway, or Highway 321, until the road forks south of town. There you can take a right and drive to Cades Cove or a left and drive through the Smokies to Gatlinburg or even Cherokee, N.C.

Along the way to Gatlinburg, there are lots of places to pull off the road to see the sites along the Little River. Or, if you'd like a high and scenic drive, you can come back toward Knoxville a few miles and take the 321 to Wears Valley. Another great drive is north of Townsend to the Foothills Parkway where you can drive the mountain tops to Wears Valley or, westward, to Look Rock and eventually to Tallassee, returning to Knoxville by Highway 411 to Maryville.

We found the drive through Cades Cove congested on that Sunday afternoon with slow traffic as visitors slowed to catch a view of bears or other wildlife. We did that loop there and stopped at the Cades Cove picnic area to have lunch and watch families with kids play in the babbling creek.

Given the rise of Covid again, a day away in the Townsend area is less crowded and less stressful than dealing with the crowds that pour into the other Smoky Mountain communities and attractions.

Actor Ronnie Schell, who appeared on the show and also played on the Gomer Pyle USMC spin-off show, will present his show, "Andy, Don & Jim, My Memories of Three Mayberry Legends."

Other events include a pie eating contest, Aunt Bee's Bake Sale, Colonel Tim's Talent Time, a Mayberry trivia contest and a checkers tournament. On Saturday, September 24, the Local fan Sam Sawyer, who takes on the character of Barney Fife, told The Focus he attended Mayberry Days in its early years from 1994-2000.

"I always had fun and enjoyed the festivities. They have several other Barney Fife impersonators that attend each year," Sawyer said.

"By the way, we are in the process of scheduling Rodney Dillard to be Tennessee Valley Fair," he added.

The easiest way from Knoxville to Mt. Airy is by way of Interstate 40 to Interstate 81 and northeast to Interstate 77. Taking I-77 southeast of Wytheville will take you to Mt. Airy. An alternative route is by way of I-40 East to Interstate 77 and north to the town.

Whether you visit Mt. Airy during the festival or any day, you might want with us the week before on Saturday, to go downtown and check out Andy September 17 at Mayberry Day at the Griffith's boyhood home, and the recreations of the Mayberry courthouse and jail, Wally's Garage, Emmitt's Fix-It Shop, the Snappy Lunch, Floyd's Barber Shop and many other themed businesses. If you like crowds, then this festival is for you; if not, then visit any other day. The downtown is free to stroll and take photos.

Aunt Bee rests in Siler City

If you're headed to Mt. Airy for the festival or any other time you may want to take a side trip to Siler City, N.C. Yep, that town mentioned on the Andy Griffith Show does exist and by that name. Frances Elizabeth Bavier, better known as Mayberry's Aunt Bee, is buried there.

Bavier appeared in 10 films and four television series. Born in New York City, she began her acting career in April 1925 on Broadway in the play "The Poor Nut." During World War II, she traveled with the USO to entertain troops in the Pacific. In 1951, she got her first film role, that of Mrs. Barley in the movie, "The Day the Earth Stood Still." Her last movie, "Benji," was released in 1974 where she was Lady with Cat. She played Mrs. Amy Morgan in the TV series "It's a Great Life" and Nora in "The Eve Arden Show." However, she is most remembered for her role of Aunt Bee in "The Andy Griffith Show" (1960 to 1968) and its spinoff series, "Mayberry RFD". While some say she felt she didn't receive the credit due her talent because of the "Aunt Bee" role and occasionally clashed with her co-stars, she chose Siler City for her retirement. Her grave is in the Oakwood Cemetery and her stone carries the inscription "AUNT BEE, TO LIVE IN THE HEARTS OF THOSE LEFT BEHIND IS NOT TO DIE."

Our area has many Mayberry reenactors that may be at the festival. One of those fans of Mayberry is Bo Pierce, who portrays Briscoe Darling.

"Mayberry Days is like a trip back in time. Several surviving cast members continue to attend along with many character Tribute Artists," Pierce told The Focus.

"There are several ticketed events, but many opportunities to stroll the sidewalks shopping and eating with thousands of The Andy Griffith Show fans. Everybody on the truck!"

A Mayberry sheriff's squad car, owned by Mark Cawood, is well known in the Knoxville area and has appeared in parades around the region.

"I usually go," Cawood told The Focus, adding, "Many fans from many states attend. The trivia contest is great but very tough. The parade is such fun! I don't take my car over there, but many squad cars show up."

Don't be surprised if you see a film crew there. A new TV series that will continue the story of the 2021 movie "Mayberry Man" will begin filming during this year's festival.

And don't forget to visit the large visitor center that houses lots of history about the town and the fictional "Mavberry."

You can get more information online at www.MayberryDays.org or by calling the Surry Arts Council at (336) 786-7998.

Siler City is 84 miles southeast of Mt. Airy.

Bikes and cars aren't equal

Everv S 0 often, a topic jumps out at me and demands my attention. Usually, the overall tone is a negative one, and this one will be no better. Yes, I'll offend some people, and for that I am sorry, but that won't change my mind.

I half listened to the news the other day and heard something about the speed limit on some city streets dropping from 30 to 25 mph. If you are like me and own a straight-shift vehicle, going that slow means driving for long distances in second or third gear,

By Joe Rector joerector@comcast.net

that's too good on a car. The reason for this change in speed is so that bicycle riders can be accommodated.

I have nothing against bike riders. As boys, Jim and I rode our bikes all over the community and even traveled to Hardin Valley to play with a boy. In those days, traffic was minimal. During a long trip to some place like the valley, we might encounter half a dozen vehicles and a few dead animals that had crossed the road at the wrong time. What concerned us most was riding not something by a yard with a dog. Most pain to male riders, and would bark and then ignore that flashing little light us. However, some were much more aggressive and came after us. Boys would be bitten or might wreck as their legs failed to push the bikes faster than the dog or in a straight line.

> These days, the roads in Ball Camp are jammed with traffic. During rush hour, a school bus or a train can cause cars to back up for miles. If those things were frustrating to people trying to arrive at work or return home in the evenings imagine what the sight of some adult man pedaling on the road does to anger levels.

> The cyclists always have the proper gear: helmets, bikes with seats that are designed to inflict torturous on the back fender that screams at drivers, "I might be slow, but I'm ahead of you!" Car drivers seethe as they sit in long lines of traffic until they can pass the inconsiderate rider. Vehicles take dangerous chances by passing cyclists on curves or up hills. In our days, we were taught to pull over so that cars could pass. Riders today refuse to do so. Perhaps they are in rhythms and don't want to break them. Some refuse to pull over to let traffic pass because they declare they have every bit as much right to the roads as cars. I beg to differ with that kind of thinking.

the same rights car drivers do when they pay to register their vehicle. At the same time, they can pay for a tag that can then be placed on the back bumper. Last, they must take a test on riding on the road. After all these things are finished and fees have been paid, those cyclists have as much right to the road as any car. Whenever possible, those unmotorized vehicles should hang either to designated bike lanes or on the shoulders of roads when traffic is heavy.

Only then will cyclists have the same rights to the roads. Until then, cyclists should find places to ride that won't add to the con-A bike rider might have gestion on roads. Perhaps

August 15, 2022 www.knoxfocus.com PAGE B3 The Fall of Congressman Clifford Davis, II Pages from the Past

By Ray Hill rayhill865@gmail.com

Congressman Clifford Davis of Memphis had quite nearly been upset in the 1962 election by, of all things, a Republican. Davis had easily won the Democratic primary that same year, beating two opponents for the Democratic nomination. Yet there had been signs of political decay inside the congressman's base of support. Tennessee's Ninth Congressional District was comprised of Shelby County and more than 600.000 residents. Once the dominion of Edward Hull Crump, it had been the Memphis Boss who had summoned then-congressman Walter Chandler home to serve as mayor of the Bluff City. Crump had likewise handpicked Cliff Davis to go to Washington and serve in the House of Representatives. For twenty-four years, Cliff Davis had remained in Washington, D.C. There had been rumors Crump had determined to remove Davis from the House, but Puerto Rican nationalists coming into the House Gallery and opening fire upon unsuspecting congressmen below changed Crump's mind. Cliff Davis was one of several congressmen wounded by the Puerto Rican nationalists and a wave of sympathy and support engulfed the congressman, causing Crump to decide the timing was not right to replace Davis in the House.

Considering seniority is oftentimes synonymous with power in Washington, one wonders why Crump er man. It is certainly true the Memphis Boss could be difficult to get along with over a period of time. James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and Postmaster General in the first two administrations of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, knew the Memphis Boss relatively well. Farley once said the only person Crump seemed to be able to get along with over a period of time was Senator Kenneth McKellar. Clearly, Cliff Davis had not acquired the kind of committee assignments usually held by a longtime incumbent. There were rumors about the congressman's drinking. Prospective opponent, George Grider, a member of Shelby County's Quarterly Court (the equivalent of today's county commission), was officially exploring a race for Congress against Davis inside the Democratic primary. In discussing the race, Grider gave none too subtle hints about "sober" leadership and "sober" judgment. One can draw one's own conclusions as a result.

running yet again in 1964. The fact Congressman Cliff Davis was politically vulnerable lured opponents into the race. George Grider and state Senator Frank White were off and running for the Democratic nomination, while Bob James was gearing up for the general election contest. Yet by the end of April 1964, no candidate had officially announced his candidacy, Cliff Davis included.

The presidential candidacy of Arizona U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater had fired up many Tennesseans and early polling gave him a large lead over President Lyndon Johnson. An interesting phenomenon was observed by one writer for the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Evidently, a goodly number of those sporting Goldwater campaign buttons seemed to be also supporting George Grider for Congress. Some readily admitted they intended to vote inside the Democratic primary and then support Goldwater in the general election. When asked, "one pert young Goldwater" supporter replied, "We just want to make sure we get rid of (Representative Clifford) Davis." Grider was considered to be the most liberal candidate running for Congress in the Democratic primary and many Republicans reasoned he would be the easiest for Bob James to beat in the general election.

Grider was off and campaigning and claimed Memphis and the Midwould wish to replace South were not getting their the International Union of the incumbent "travels the spouse of a Louisiana constituents. Longtime incumbents always point to their seniority, which they have accrued due to their long service. That same long service usually is accompanied by very good committee assignments and the ability to produce projects and federal dollars for that incumbent's district or state. Challengers to veteran incumbents necessarily had to be critical of the incumbent's efforts, or portray the incumbent as ineffectual. George Grider, a veteran of the Navy, noted, "A city like Atlanta or a region like California enjoys a boom based on their biggest industry - - - defense - - - while Memphis and the Mid-South have pitiful shares." Speaking before a local service club luncheon, Grider promoted the area, saying Memphis and the Mid-South had "natural assets" such as "Location, people, power and transportation" required to become a hub of the federal defense industry. Cliff Davis concentrated less on speeches than the ordinary daily tasks which keep congressmen busy. Davis was one of several members of the Tennessee Congressional delegation who honored Swinton Alphonse Roof, a seventeenyear-old orphan, who was honored by organized labor in Memphis at a banquet.

Tennessee Congressman Cliff Davis of Memphis being carried out of the Capitol after having been shot and wounded on the floor of the House of Representatives by Puerto Rican nationalists in 1954.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal's Clark Porteous wrote, "No Memphis high school athletic hero ever received the acclaim accorded a star student who wants to do research in physics." Porteous thought the event was one of "organized labor's finest hours" in Memphis celebrating the accomplishments of Swinton Roof.

The young scholar lived with his four young sisters and was one of six winners of a National AFL-CIO $6,000 scholarship, which Roof intended to use to attend Southwestern College. Cliff Davis was one of the thousand people who gathered at the auditorium for the banquet. Mayor William B. Ingram presented Roof with the key to the City of Memphis. Senator and Mrs. Albert Gore were on hand, as were Congressman Ross Bass and his beautiful wife, Avanell. Gore and Bass were running for the United States Senate that year.

Swinton Roof's late father had been a member of the Steamfitter's Union before his death from cancer in 1961, which presented the youngster with a brand new typewriter. The local Barber's Union gave Swinton Roof a certificate awarding him 24 free haircuts, while Local 731 of scholar a gift certificate for $25. The speaker for the evening was Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, who was the president of the United Auto Workers. Victor Reuther was the director of foreign affairs for the AFL-CIO. Three of Swinton Roof's four sisters were in the audience and clearly delighted by their brother's success as prominent people heaped praise upon his achievements. Clark Porteous wrote, "Thru it all, Swinton kept his calm modesty, speaking seldom and replying politely to questions." That same day Cliff Davis made the announcement of yet another perk of incumbency; the congressman's office revealed the names of two young Memphians whom he had appointed to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. The Commercial Appeal reported both Kerry Edward Killebrew and Richard Hunter Smith were "A" students and seniors at Overton High School. On April 24, 1964, Bob James, who had missed toppling Cliff Davis from the House of Representatives two years earlier, made it official; he was running again. "I am only one person, but I am one person," James told those gathered for the announcement. "I cannot dodge the responsibility that falls on all of us to bring about better government."

Bob James ripped local Democrats, saying, "for too many years, Democratic administrations have sought to solve the problems of mankind by increasing the size and power of Government.

"And in our local governments we see: corruption, dishonesty, and mismanagement involving many persons running our election procedures; an old, slow, petti-fogging machine creaking along with too many hangers-on; clowning exhibitionism, pettiness and childishness in city government; and spending gone out of control for extras and frosting in all governments when we haven't even started paying for the cake, itself."

James hit the administration of Governor Frank Clement (a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate) as weak and inept. Bob James charged the Johnson administration of "fiscal double talk, Texas cover-up, fortune building and traffic speed up," which was a presumed reference to LBJ's reputed speeding in his Lincoln Continental on his ranch. As for Congressman Clifford Davis, James said more and does less than any man in the United States Congress." Carrie Davis, the wife of the congressman, generated considerable publicity with the announcement she would be the presiding officer and "official greeter" at the "Breakfast With the First Lady" event sponsored by the Congressional Club at Washington's swanky Sheraton Park Hotel ballroom. The brunch was expected to host 1,000

Ladybird Johnson.

The vivacious Mrs. Carrie Davis was a leader of Washington society. "Why, people call me a walking Chamber of Commerce for Memphis," she told a writer for the Commercial Appeal. The congressman's wife said numerous people from Memphis wrote her asking for tourist information about Washington, D.C. They were especially interested to know how they could visit the White House "without waiting in line." The family room at the Davis home near Chevy Chase, Maryland, was a constant reminder of the Memphis connection. A hand-carved wooden seal of the City of Memphis hung over the entrance of the family room while framed scenes of the Mississippi River lined the walls.

Friends of Carrie Davis liked to tell how once she and her husband moved to Washington, the congressman's wife was astonished to discover few natives had air-conditioned cars. "All of my Memphis friends have air-conditioned cars," Mrs. Davis exclaimed, "why don't you all?" It wasn't long before most of her friends were driving air-conditioned cars.

"Everyone in Washington knows Carrie, and they all know she's from Memphis." Lindy Boggs was described as one of Carrie's best friends. "I've never known a woman to be so well liked and well thought of by everybody... old and young, men and women, Democrats and Republicans... all ages love her," Lindy Boggs explained. Even President Lyndon Johnson gave a testimonial to the formidable Carrie Davis. "Mrs. Davis is a can-do woman. If you want something done, put it in Carrie's hands," the president said.

Carrie Davis was evidently a practical woman and said the couple planned to return to Memphis once her husband retired. "Washington is fine if you are in the swim of things, but it's no place to be if you aren't in the water," Mrs. Davis said.

Carrie Davis' effectiveness was evidenced by the fact no other person had ever been twice elected to the presidency of the Congressional Club in its 56-year history. Mrs. Davis had also been the honoree at a special "Salute to Carrie" luncheon of some 500 people from both sides people to meet and greet of the aisle in Washington, D.C.

One friend thought Carrie Davis exemplified the typical Southern woman. That same friend described Carrie Davis as "gracious, calm, sincere, yet brilliant."

On the same day, it was announced Congressman Cliff Davis would serve as the head of a special House committee designed to "expedite President Johnson's $228 million program for the under-developed 10-state Appalachia region." Davis consulted with Speaker of the House John McCormack and Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and promptly declared hearings would occur the following week. Naturally, the Memphis newspapers ran pictures of Cliff Davis meeting with Speaker McCormack and Majority Leader Albert. It was another reminder of Cliff Davis' seniority in the House of Representatives.

The appointment also gave the Commercial Appeal the opportunity to publish an editorial solemnly intoning about the "added responsibility" and the "special distinction" which had come to Congressman Clifford Davis. The longtime congressman adroitly used his incumbency to Mrs. Hale Boggs, herself keep himself before his Appeal giving a rose to Miss Carolyn Adair of Memphis, the acting "Maid of Cotton." The congressman gave a luncheon in Miss Adair's honor and guests included Tennessee's junior United States senator, Herbert S. Walters, as well as Congressmen E. C. Gathings of Arkansas, Tom Abernethy of Mississippi, and Tennesseans Bill Brock, Jimmy Quillen and Bob "Fats" Everett.

The idea a Republican could be competitive in a district once so overwhelmingly Democratic was a shock to many. That same GOP candidate who had quite nearly toppled Cliff Davis from his seat in Congress, Bob James, was off and ATHENS, GA. - The University of Georgia held a dedication ceremony Aug. 4 to celebrate the naming of Black-Diallo-Miller Hall, UGA's newest residence hall.

The residence hall, which is located on Baxter Street, is named in honor of Harold Alonza Black, Mary Blackwell Diallo and Kerry Rushin Miller, the first African American students to enroll as freshmen and complete their undergraduate degrees at UGA. ### What did you find out about East Tennessee that surprised you?

I was most surprised by the similarities between East Tennessee and New England. The Appalachian Mountains dominate the landscape where I grew up in New Hampshire, as they do in East Tennessee. There is a similar culture of independence. People are as friendly in my small hometown as they are in Knoxville. One big difference that surprised me was the traffic – I was terrified by the number and speed of tractor trailers on I-40!!

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL KICKS OFF THIS WEEK Jamboree gives preview of 2022

By Ken Lay

The 2022 high school football season unofficially kicked off late last week as several area teams were in action in a pair of area jamborees Thursday and Friday.

Three local squads were in action Thursday night at the 5Star Preps Jamboree in Jefferson City at Carson-Newman University.

Catholic High School had a big night as it defeated Science Hill 20-0.

The Irish got on the scoreboard first when Vanderbilt commitment and senior kicker booted a field goal to make it 3-0. Taylor would close the scoring in the second quarter with a 47-yarder.

Catholic scored its touchdowns on a 10-yard run by Quincy Pannell in the opening frame. Taylor added the extra point to extend the Irish's advantage to 10-0.

Teams played two quarters in Jefferson City. One frame was played with standard timing rules and the second was played with a running clock and gave secondteamers and junior varsity players the opportunity to compete.

Catholic's second string scored in the second stanza as Briggs Cherry connected with Tyreek King on a 59-yard scoring strike. Taylor then followed with his second extra point of the night.

Irish coach Korey Mobbs was pleased with his team's effort.

CAK running back Jay Duncan evades a host of Elizabethton defenders and rumbles toward the end zone in Thursday's 5Star Preps Jamboree in Jefferson City. Duncan scored the Warriors' only touchdown of the game in their 21-7 loss to the Cyclones. Photo submitted.

"We moved the ball well and defensively, we forced a couple of turnovers and made some big plays," Mobbs said. "We're fortu-Brock Taylor.

"He's a great kicker and he's a Vanderbilt commit. Any time, you get the ball inside the 50, you've got a chance to score when you have him."

In other games at Carson-Newman:

Grace Christian Academy 7, Morristown East 7: Ronen McCarthy scored a game-tying touchdown on a 60-yard scamper for nate to have a great kicker like the Rams in the second quarter against the Hurricanes.

> Elizabethton 21, Christian Academy of Knoxville 7: After surrendering the game's first touchdown to the Cyclones, the Warriors pulled even on a scoring dash by Jay Duncan.

Elizabethton scored the final 14 points of the contest.

Also on Thursday, the KOC Jamboree opened Thursday at Central High School with The King's Academy, Carter and Fulton notching victories at Dan Y. Boring Stadium.

South-Doyle dropped a 14-0 decision to Campbell County.

The Lions defeated Gibbs 6-0 on the strength of a 29-yard touchdown pass from sophomore quarterback Avery Jordan to Zeke Connaster.

Jordan was 2-for-4 for 43 yards as he stepped in for the injured Elijah Williams-Smith, who was injured during the preseason. Williams-Smith is hoping to return later this season.

Fulton 19, Halls 14: Falcons' senior quarterback Marcellus Jackson accounted for three touchdowns to help Fulton edge Halls in a comeback victory.

Jackson had scoring scampers of 64 and 39 yards respectively. He also had a touchdown pass to Keyshawn Banks that covered 43 yards.

The Red Devils, however, scored first on a 1-yard plunge by quarterback Cassen Huffaker to give Halls an early lead.

Huffaker also threw a 39-yard pass to Camden Johnson and kicker Hunter Allen made a pair of extra points for Halls.

Carter 13, Central 0: Senior quarterback Chandler Wilson threw a pair of scoring strikes and the Hornets' defense came up with a turnover as Roman Webb recovered a Central fumble as Carter shut out the host Bobcats.

Chandler connected with Kaleb Harper on a 27-yard TD pass that culminated a 16-play, 70-yard drive. Chandler later had a 15-yard touchdown pass to Spencer Russell.

Eagles will be playing for wins and a nest

Head Coach Brad Turner threw a lot of wet towels on sweaty Gibbs players to help them cool off during a hot preseason practice last week, but he has yet to throw in the towel on this season for the lack of a home field to play on.

And he won't. Instead, he's trying to turn the adversity into incentive.

His team is homeless as construction on a new stadium is way behind schedule, causing home games to be played on the road.

Right now Coach Turner is holding out for a decision on the final regular season game against South-Doyle and a possible Senior Night being played at home. He's also mentioned the fact that if his Eagles finish in first or second place in the region, they will be rewarded with a home playoff game.

"We can either sit and complain about it or we can go and try to make history and do something special," said Turner.

"He'll lead the bunch," Taylor said of Kirkland. "Rice moves really well; he's gonna be a really good tackle for us. Thompson's done a really good job. Hunter is a big ol' boy; moves well."

"We're excited about those guys ... feel like we can build on what we did last year," Taylor said. "Feel like we can have as much success on the offensive side of the ball as we did last year."

Taylor also thinks his defense will hold its own. "We lose three key starters from D but we return a lot of guys who got to play some," he said. "They've got a season under their belt.

Taylor plays a 3-4 front seven on defense. The linemen will be Hunter, returning starter Cassell, senior returning starter JJ Ramirez (5-11, 260), and senior Andrew Stamper (6-5, 200).

Hunter said Taylor is "big, very ath-Lockhart (6-3, 170) will be Tarwater's letic for his size. Ramirez did a really Karon Freeman will be at the other corner, with some experience from last year. The final position in the secondary could be either safety or corner, and will be split between sophomore Doug Turner (6-0, 185), and junior Georgia transfer Terry Sutton.

"A lot of potential," Taylor said of Turner. "Sutton could also be receiver; pretty athletic."

Junior Blake Dawson returns at kicker, and will also punt. "He's done a good job," Taylor said. "He's gotten stronger.'

Bishop will return both kicks and punts. "Some kick to him but many don't;" Taylor said. "That can help you get good field position."

Taylor believes team cohesion and unity will be a team strength. "I think that's one thing we did well last year," he said. "Our kids enjoyed football, they enjoyed football with each other. That's gonna be important this year, enjoying playing with each other."

McMillan said there would be really no changes from Coach Black to himself. "As far as the transition, nothing is really different as far as job description," he said. Buddy was 84 when he died, but the memories of his days on Shields-Watkins Field and other venues across the Southeastern Conference (SEC) have not dimmed in the slightest. He played at 6-3, 184 pounds, not only at wide receiver, but at defensive back as well, wearing No. 86.

He was a Knoxville native, playing at Knox High in that school's final year, but also in the early days of the city's East High School. He was a talented prep athlete, earning All-State and All-American honors in both football and basketball.

Cruze set numerous state high school records during his prep career. His records included most points scored in the tournament (106), most free throws made in a game (10), most points scored in one game (47), and most rebounds in one game (25). His record for most points in a single game stood for 41 years before being broken.

> Cruze led the team in receptions in 1955 and 1956, with 12 catches for 232 yards and four scores his junior season and 20 catches for 357 yards and two scores in his senior season. He was the school's all-time record holder for both receptions and yardage after his senior season was etched in the record books. His record for single-season catches lasted until being broken by Hal Wantland (21) in 1964 and his mark for single-season yardage until 1966, topped by Johnny Mills (725).

> "He was my No. 1 receiver and a great friend, one of the greatest athletes ever developed in the state of Tennessee," said Majors. "When Buddy and I got together, it was hard for either one of us to get a word in edgewise. My ego never got out of control when Buddy was around."

Cruze played all 60 minutes, caught two touchdown passes from Majors, and had a leaping 39-yard catch that led to the first Vol score. He also recovered a fumble.

> "Out-of-this-world catches by Buddy Cruze and Bill Anderson on passes thrown by Tailbacks Johnny Majors and Al Carter turned the tide of an old-time blood battle between the two ancient rivals," Wilson wrote.

Lions looking to take next step

By David Klein

The King's Academy Lions look to take the next step in the Division II playoffs after reaching the quarterfinals last season. The Lions return many key players and experience on both offense and defense.

Head Coach Jonathan Sellers highlighted the offensive line as being a strength of the team. Nearly all of the offensive line returns. Sellers said, "offensively, I think we got to lean on the offensive line."

One of the returning offensive and defensive lineman, Connor Wallis, talked highly about the offensive line. "We have four returning on the offensive line," Wallis said. "I'm confident our line will be able to execute any kind of blocking scheme," he added.

Sellers had high praise for his returning junior quarterback, Elijah Williams Smith. Sellers said quarterback Smith is a dual threat guy to run or pass and had 1,400 yards passing last year.

Defense will be a strong point of Kings Academy again this season. "I tell everybody the old adage is defense wins championships," Sellers said. "Coach Kirby (defensive coordinator) does a phenomenal iob."

Ezekiel "Zeke" Connatser returns in the secondary after making nine interceptions last year to be an all-state cornerback. "He did a really good job being in the right spot to make plays," Sellers said. "He has a good catch radius so it's hard to get the ball over him. He does a good job of locking up assignments."

The Tennessee School for the Deaf Vikings are looking to put 2021 behind them. The Vikings went 0-5, with four games canceled due to COVID restrictions. There also weren't any games against other deaf programs due to travel restrictions.

While practice began for the Vikings on Sunday, August 7, the 2022 season really gets started on Thursday night against Grace Baptist Academy.

"Grace Baptist Academy will be a very challenging game," said TSD head coach Bill Osborne. "We will be coming off of just two weeks of practice facing a team that will be playing their second game, and they are a very well-coached team."

For the Vikings, the upcoming campaign will be an opportunity to develop consistency within the program.

"This is the first time since the 2016-2017 seasons that we are playing football in back-to-back years," said Osborne. "Due to low numbers in 2018 and COVID in 2020 we did not have a football team. It is really exciting to see the growth of this team from last year. We also have some newcomers this year that we believe will help us on both sides of the ball."

from last season.

With only 15 players on this year's roster, every position counts. In football, the most important position is quarterback. The Vikings are going with Garrett Burns at QB1. "(He) played wide receiver last year. I'm excited to see how he handles the transition to quarterback and ready to see how he grows as the year progresses."

Burns will call on running back Gage Conger to help the Vikings offense move the football down the field. "He's a playmaker who returned a couple of kickoffs for touchdowns last year," said Osborne.

Elsewhere on the roster, lineman Elijah Nichols will be called on to make a major impact.

"Elijah is our anchor in the trenches," said Osborne. "The heartbeat and leader of our program."

"He's really trying to grasp the offense and understand who we want to be," Sellers said. "He's got all the tools you need." In the running game, Sellers mentioned running back Tanner Norris as a pivotal player. "He's going to be the guy that really takes over in the run game. He's gonna be set for a really good season," Sellers offs. "We've made it to the guarterfinals now three straight years, four of the last five years," Sellers said. "We've never made it past it. We don't necessarily say hey that's our goal but it's always in the back of our minds. That's kind of a hill we haven't been able to climb and something we'd like to do this year."

King's Academy opens the season at home August 19 against Christian Academy of Knoxville.

The Vikings bring back ten starters but they will miss lineman Jarwin Webster and running back/linebacker Adrian Martinez Linebacker Jordan Grimes led the Vikings in tackles and returns for his sophomore season.

This is Osborne's eighth year with the program and second as head coach. He knows better than anyone the importance of the homecoming contest against Alabama School of the Deaf on September 17.

"Alabama is always the biggest game to our school and alumni," said Osborne.

Cherokees' new chief Shelton ready, eager to start new era

By Bill Howard

Paul Shelton doesn't like the word rebuilding. Maybe a better word is transition. Whatever it's called, things are going to be different for South Doyle High School's football team this year.

"It's a new culture for them," Shelton said. "It's a new offense. Everything's brand new."

Shelton is taking over for Clark Duncan, who retired after leading the Cherokees as head coach for 13 years and was with the program for 19. It's the first head coaching job for Shelton, who came to SD from being an assistant coach at the University of California, Davis.

Despite the team's lack of experience - a total of three starters return - Shelton is confident in his boys' desire to win.

"I think our guys are but I doubt there are any hungry," said Shelton. Owens (5-10, 195) will "They're a young group. I think they'll continue to get better and better. The whole season will be a growing phase."

Junior Maddox Cupp (5-11, 185) and senior Nolan Brang (5-11, 165) will compete to start at quarterback. "They've both done a really good job," Shelton said. "They're athletes but they are quarterbacks."

"We're gonna throw the football deep," Shelton said. "We're gonna play extremely fast and be extremely aggressive with our tempo and play-calling. I don't know if we have one quarterback that's better than everybody in the area, ours."

Greenville High School transfer senior Tajuan probably lead the Cherokees' rushing attack. Getting carries also will be junior Taeshaun Gary (5-11, 170).

"Deepest position on our roster," Shelton said of the 'Kees run game. "It's a good combination."

A top receiver target for the quarterbacks is likely to be junior Nate Thomas (5-7, 155). They'll also throw to junior Rolando Phillips (6-1, 175) and senior Fulton transfer Jaymison Troutt (6-0, 165).

"Great hands, exactly what you want in a slot receiver," Shelton said of Thomas.

Shelton's offensive line is very much a work in progress. "We have a lot have two quarterbacks like not really sure of," he said. "Gonna shuffle guys in and out. There's a lot of movement in the O-line."

A definite starter returning to the position from last year is senior Max Hull (6-4, 275) at tackle. One of the guard positions will be manned by junior Jaedyn Begovich (6-3, 255).

"Hull's our best prospect," Shelton said. "He can play. He's an FCS kid. Begovich is a good prospect.'

Hull will be a two-way player for Shelton, as he'll also play defensive tackle as a returning starter. At noseguard, senior Jay Streeter (6-2, 250) will also return to the position from last year.

"His best attribute is his speed and quickness," Shelton said of Streeter. "The (D-line) is gonna be by committee. We don't really teams in the area that of young faces that we're have a bunch of standout guys."

Two senior inside linebackers for the Cherokees will be senior Tristan Mullins (5-11, 210) and senior Sammy Ensley (5-10, 215).

Said Shelton of Mullins, "he's a good football player; he's a leader. He's exactly what you wanna be, great tackler." The 'Kees other linebackers are also to be determined.

Two-way players will abound in the secondary for Shelton. Thomas and Philips will play safety; Trout will play both safety and nickelback.

Junior Jado Jean-Dor (5-10, 170) will play cornerback. "Great tackler, knows what to do ... good kid," Shelton said of Jean-Dor. "I feel good about our secondary. Our depth isn't great, but we got some guys who can play there. It's not a liability."

Sophomore soccer player Jonah Mitchell - Goalie of the Year last year in Region 2, District 4-AA soccer will handle the kicking and punting duties.

Gary will return kicks. Thomas will return punts.

Last year the Cherokees started 4-0, only to then lose four of five. They finished 6-4 in the regular season (Region 2-4A), and lost to Greeneville in the first round of the playoffs.

"They're eager to learn," Shelton said of his inaugural team. "They're willing to be coached. When you say something to them they hang on to every word. They wanna be pushed. I think we have the ability to be competitive and really play well in our region. We're just gonna have to continue to grow."

Bearden has 'target' on its back as it looks to repeat as state champ

By Ken Lay

Bearden High School's girls soccer team reached the pinnacle in 2021. The Lady Bulldogs finally captured an elusive Class 3A State Championship.

They went undefeated, posting a 23-0-1 record and achieving a No. 1 national ranking by season's end. And coach Ryan Radcliffe knows that everybody has extra incentive to end his side's long winning streak.

"For us, it's not going to be about playing okay or just playing good. We're going to have to be at the top of our game every night," said Radcliffe, who opens his ninth season as the Lady Bulldogs' coach. "When you're coming off a state championship and an undefeated season and a No. 1 ranking, what more motivation can you give people?

"We have a target on you're Bearden, you always ers back," Radcliffe said. have a target on your back. But when you're ranked as high as we are, everybody wants to beat that undefeated team."

The Lady Bulldogs enter the 2022 campaign with a No. 2 national ranking and making things even tougher for them is the fact that Bulldogs include: Murphy; they play in District 4-3A, the state's toughest league that features the likes of Farragut, Hardin Valley Academy and Maryville.

So repeating as state champion certainly won't be easv.

Key newcomers include: Bearden, however, returns Jayla Blue (freshman, forward) and Tyler Roth (freshman, midfielder). Jayla is Nyla's younger sister and Tyler is Becca's sister.

New coach inherits talented roster at West High

By Ken Lay

Coach Roberto Castro is one of the new faces associated with the West High School's girls soccer program this year.

"Our girls have been battle-tested and there are no secrets with our team," said Castro, who takes over for Xandy Van Den Berg. Van Den Berg resigned last spring.

Castro, however, inherits a talented roster and expectations are high for the Lady Rebels, who finished 7-10-1 last season and claimed second place in the District 3-3A regular-season standings with a 3-1 league record. West also reached the postseason tournament championship match and qualified for the Region 2-3A Tournament as the District 3 runner-up.

The experienced players and the new coach have high expectations for the upcoming campaign, which opens this week with a pair of league matches.

The Lady Rebels will travel to Karns to play the Lady Beavers Tuesday night. Kickoff is slated for 6:30 p.m.

West then hosts Oak Ridge Thursday in its home opener at Bill Wilson Field. Kickoff for that game is scheduled for 7 p.m.

"We open with two district games," said Castro, who was a longtime assistant at Alcoa High School, his alma mater. "It's like I told the girls, the expectations are high. We want to win and we want to win our district.

"After that, we want to get to the state tournament."

That may be a tall order for the Lady Rebels, who always field a competitive team. However, once they emerge from the district, they'll have to play Maryville, Farragut, Hardin Valley Academy or defending Class 3A State Champion Bearden in the Region 2-3A Tournament.

"Region 2-3A is the most competitive and toughest region of any classification in the state," Castro said. "Our region is as tough as it gets."

A pair of freshmen will also look to make an impact for the Lady Rebels this season as rookie forwards Eli McLean and Ava Curtis join the fray.

The returners and the youngsters provide plenty of reason for optimism.

"We have a lot of players back and even our younger players are stepping into roles early that I didn't know they could fill," Castro said. "I don't think that there's any one glaring weakness with our team and we have experience all across the board."

The Knoxville FOCUS August 15, 2022 PAGE D6 FROM THE MOUNTAINS BY JADON GIBSON Wildlife, rabies and the outdoors II

By Jadon Gibson

Rabies is highly infectious and can be a deadly killer. It is transmitted by contact with the saliva of an animal with rabies or through a bite or scratch. In developed countries where canine rabies is common most cases of human rabies result from foxes, wolves, bats, skunks or other wild animals. House pets and farm animals are often inoculated against the disease.

This wasn't the case in times of olde such as when we finished the first part of this story last week.

heard he had been bitten by a wolf I anticipated the consequence with horror," Joseph Doddridge, a minister and historian wrote. "I was even more concerned because he relied on a physician who had a single pill and offered no other medical aid."

On the Thursday, Friday and Saturday before his death, the man who was bitten had the appearance of a person with a fever, headache, and general weakness or disorder of the central nervous system. It started with a stomach ache but then he became unable to swallow. He developed terrible pains in his neck and back when more serious symptoms appeared. On Sunday hydrophobia set in.

"I was struck with con-"From the time I first sternation at his appearance," Doddridge continued. "All of his senses appeared to have acquired a hundred-fold excitability. The slightest impression on any of his senses sent him into the deepest horror. "Noise, the sight of the reputation of curing the colored clothing, the bite of a mad animal with sudden passage of any person between him and the light of the window or candle, affected him beyond description."

> His convulsive fits set in on Sunday night and he was fastened by his hands and feet to the bed posts.

> "It is impossible for language to describe this terrible disease," Doddridge continued. "The horror of mind which he suffered was equal to a most timid lady being compelled to walk through a graveyard at midnight. He pleaded for the physicians to bleed him to death.

"He begged that some of his limbs be cut off. Finding that this request would not be complied with he looked up at his rifle on the wall and begged me with tears in his eyes to take it down and shoot him right through the head.

delight and thankfulness while you are pulling the trigger," the man with rabies begged. "You will be doing right by doing this. I know that you pity me; but you ought to put an end to my misery. God himself will not blame you if you do."

The man experienced intermittent fits which were followed by periods when he had a complete understanding.

"He was quite rational until three 'clock Monday afternoon," Doddridge continued. "He asked that we pray for him and offered directions concerning his affairs, funeral sermon and burial.

"After going through a series of agonizing seizures he became calm for a few hours before death put an end to his suffering."

by the use of the single ever was. And so he was."

"I will look on you with pill by the doctor and why it was accepted by some. He surmised it had been given to patients at times in treating bites of animals that were not rabid at all.

"In many cases the animal is reported to be mad and instantly killed," he related. "If the animal is not truly infected, the pills given for the disease seem to do wonders because there was no need for them.

"A few years ago a gentleman of my neighborhood brought me his daughter whom he said had been bitten by a mad cat," Doddridge explained. "I asked if the cat was a male and he answered that it was. He said that he had the cat closed up in a closet. I am glad of that. I told him to keep the cat closed up for a few days and then you'll Doddridge was puzzled find him to be as well as he

The false reputation of these nostrums resulted from so-called cures when in actuality there was no disease at all. Conversely, when ineffective medications were relied on when the animal was infected it led to painful deaths.
